DISPUTE RAGES OVER GAS RATE

Utilities Board Rules Norwalk Ordinance Void; Chairman Objects.

ESTABLISHES PRECEDENT

Schaber Claims Decision Bars Regulation of Rates After Laws Expire.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 1.— The state utilities commission declared void today a Norwalk city gas rate ordinance passed Jan. 5, and established a precedent which Chairman C. P. Schaber, who objected to the decision, declared virtually divested municipalities of the right to regulate rates after expiration of ordinances.

R. D. Williams and Dennis Donlavy, who gave the majority opinion, held that because a contract between the city of Norwalk and the Ohio Fuel Gas Co., expired and a new rate ordinance was not enacted within a year, the ordinance of Jan. 5 passed three weeks after the gas company applied to the commission for a rate increase, was void.

Cites Plea Before Board

In part, the majority opinion held:

"At the time of the enactment of the (Jan. 5) ordinance upon a date when no such rate contract existed (between the company and the city of Norwalk) there was pending before this commission, undisposed of, an application by the said company for the fixing and determination of the rates to be charged for natural gas service in said city (and ordered) that all further proceedings on the appeal be discontinued."

In dissenting, Schaber declared:

"In my opinion, the action of the majority commissioners in discontinuing this appeal, predicated upon the finding that this ordinance is void, is contrary to law.

"The holding herein is to the effect that when a gas or natural gas company (and would be equally applicable to an electric light company) files an application to establish rates or to modify or increase any existing rate, after a municipal rate-fixing ordinance has expired, the municipality loses all authority to

IT WAS A WARM NIGHT IN MARION

And It Seemed Warmer Because of Humidity.

A combination of heat and humidity gave Marion residents one of their most restless nights, so far as the weather is concerned, last night.

The mercury dropped only to the 70 mark, ranking as one of the seven nights this summer when it has remained at that level of higher.

However, the humidity or moisture content of the air was at one of the highest points in months, adding to the discomfort of Marion residents and making it seem that there was little change in teh temperature, it was explained by Dr. E. H. Raffensperger, government weather observer for Marion. The humidity last night was rated at 90 as compared with a Marion average of 60 to 80.

Last night's 70-degree low mark was 12 degrees below yesterday's high of 82. A year ago the mercury ranged between a high of 88 and a low of 58.

The government weather forecast is mostly cloudy weather tonight and Thursday with little change in temperature.

JAPS' BIG PUSH REKINDLES FIRE OVER SHANGHAI

Aerial Bombs and Shells from Men-O'-War Start New Series of Roaring Blazes.

CHINESE CLING TO POSTS

Tokyo Plans To Spread Conflict to Whole of China: Attacks Airdromes.

By The Associated Press

SHANGHAI, Sept. 1. — A terrifying series of great new fires roared in Shanghai tonight, kindled by the opening naval guns and aerial bombs of Japan's big offensive against all of China.

The blazes, one of them in the Soochow creek area facing the American-defended sector of the international settlement, formed a magnificent and awful background for the military drama.

Twenty-one Japanese destroyers and cruisers pumped shells into the Chapei and Klangwan sectors of Shanghai's north end. Japanese warplanes rained bombs on Chinese positions.

Chinese Fight Desperately

Woosung, Shanghai's historic defense post at the wide river bend where the Whangpoo meets the Yangtze, already was in Japanese hands. But the hard-pressed Chinese were fighting on with unmatched courage and tenacity, holding firmly to many important positions.

The Changhai curtain raiser to the Japanese offensive which is to extend all over China found American and British naval commanders considering the possibility of uniting their protective strength to force a way to the sea for their refugees.

That consideration was the result of Japanese naval warnings to all shipping to steer clear of Japanese warship concentrations cramming both the Whangpoo and the Yangtze.

The Anglo-British naval authorities discussed a convoy plan to force an open and safe path down the Yangtze and Whangpoo rivers—both choked with Japanese warships.

An open route to the sea is vital to the safety of war-girt Americans and other foreigners in Shanghai because, with the international city hemmed in by fighting, the Yangtze and Whangpoo are their only hope of escape.

Japs To Raid Airdromes

Japanese threatened meanwhile to accelerate the spread of the undeclared war steadily engulfing all of sprawling China. Japanese naval commanders said they were prepared to launch air raids against all Chinese airdromes and military bases. Yesterday, Japanese planes bombed such bases in the far south, around Canton.

Japanese advices from the north indicated an imminent major battle at the important Yellow river barrier to central China. An irregular Chinese army was reported to be waiting with overwhelming numbers for Japanese columns pressing south from Tientsin and Peiping, with superior armaments and equipment.

Chinese reports, however, declared the highly mobile Japanese army was bogged in north China's rainy season mud and still on the defensive against Chinese rear and flank attacks.

(As the United States Dollar liner President Hoover, scarred by a Chinese aerial attack at sea, reached Kobe with a seaman killed and passengers and sailors wounded, high officials at Washington intimated that a naval order closing the port of Shanghai to American merchantmen would be lifted.

Warships on Guard

Informed sources said greater watchfulness of American ships would be established by United States men-of-war but did not expect convoys for merchant shipping. Three new American heavy cruisers were steamed up at San Pedro for a dash to Shanghai.)

Although Washington has invested Admiral Harry Yarnel, commander in chief of the United States Asiatic fleet, with wide discretionary powers in the crisis, it was thought the plan would be referred to President Roosevelt before being put into effect.

The Japanese naval authorities further announced that developments might compel their fleet to take stringent action to stop shipments of arms and munitions to China from foreign nations.

AGOSTA FARMER HURT IN RUNAWAY

Bicycle Frightens Horses Driven by D. W. Schmidt.

Daniel W. Schmidt, 68, of near Agosta, is in the City hospital for treatment of injuries suffered when he was thrown from a farm wagon yesterday afternoon near his home.

According to a report, Mr. Schmidt's team of horses became frightened by a boy on a bicycle and ran away.

Mr. Schmidt suffered a fracture of the right thigh bone, lacerations about the head and cuts on the right elbow. The attending physician said today Mr. Schmidt would be placed in a cast later this week.

HIS SHIP BOMBED

Four Chinese warplanes dumped bombs on the United States Dollar liner President Hoover near Shanghai, mistaking the vessel for a Japanese warship. The vessel was under the command of Capt. George W. Yardley (above.)

Commander Says Chinese Only 150 Feet Aloft When They Dropped Bombs.

By The Associated Press

KOBE, Japan, Sept. 1—The Dollar liner President Hoover, badly damaged by a Chinese air raid at sea, brought her dead and wounded into this harbor today.

The President Hoover was on her way to Shanghai Monday when a squadron of four Chinese bombers dove low over her and attacked. Fragments pierced her hull, wrecked parts of her interior, killed Mess Steward Lloyd Haskell of Baltimore, Md., and wounded passengers and seamen.

United States naval authorities ordered her to turn about and cross the China sea to Japan rather than risk the danger of other attacks.

Only 150 Feet Aloft

George W. Yardley, commander of the 21,900-ton liner, said one of the Chinese planes loosed its bombs from a height of no more than 150 feet.

"He must of thought we were a Japanese boat," Yardley said, "although it is difficult to understand considering the proximity of the plane.

"The President Hoover was riding at anchor. It was tea time and the majority of the passengers

WALDO TWP. GIRL AGAIN WINS LIVESTOCK AWARD

Steer Owned by Helen Strine, 17, Judged Grand Champion at State Fair; Winner in Previous Years.

The steer judged grand champion in the open class yesterday at the Ohio State fair was shown by 17-year-old Helen Strine of two miles east of Waldo, according to The Associated Press.

Miss Strine, who raises Aberdeen Angus stock, has brought signal honors to Marion county at the last three Cleveland livestock shows, and her grand championship yesterday not only added to her own record as a showman but placed her definitely as a serious contender in any livestock competition.

Because there was no Aberdeen Angus class in the Junior fair this year, Miss Strine had to show her steer in the open class, pitting her entry against the stock of nationally known breeders who compete annually at the Ohio State fair.

Director of Agriculture Earl H. Hanefeld predicted a record crowd of 80,000 would jam into the fair grounds Thursday for governor's day, The Associated Press reported. County and township officials were guests today and part of an expected crowd of 60,000. Director Hanefeld announced reduction in admission price after 6 p. m. from 50 to 25 cents.

Miss Strine is one of 10 women showing blooded cattle at the fair this year.

Started Early

Since she was 12 years of age she has been showing stock at the Cleveland show. In 1934 a calf she entered won first prize in the junior yearling class and she was awarded the trophy for the best steer exhibited by a girl.

Two years ago at the Cleveland show her steer was judged grand champion, and she became the first girl ever to exhibit a grand champion at the show. The steer was sold for $883.20. Last year she won third place in the Aberdeen Angus senior calf class and sixth in the junior class and was presented the award for the best yearling steer shown by a girl.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry F. Strine of two miles east of Waldo and is a graduate of the Waldo high school class of last May.

Junior fair livestock judging yesterday brought high honors to boys and girls of nearby counties, according to a Columbus news report.

Other Winners

Roland E. Johnston of Delaware displayed the first prize yearling and Richard Boerger of Marysville walked off with the Holstein showmanship contest, taking first and second places. First prize winners among the 300 swine exhibited for Future Farmers of America awards included Earl McKenzie of Galena in the Poland China sow class and Carl Turner of Mt. Gilead, Chester White sow. First prize winners in the F. F. A. market hog competition were Edwin Crabill of Forest in class A and Lauren Elkins of Kenton in class B.

W. M. Staley & Son of Marysville and George W. Deeds of Palmkala divided the majority of the first places in class A of merino sheep competition in the senior show.

Stardust from the White Star farm at Delaware placed third in the 1500 stake for a junior five-gaited saddle horses last night at the second night of the horse show. The prize blue ribbon of the second night's show was won by the Dixiana farm at Lexington, Ky.

Marion Farm Bureau Display Wins Second

Marion County Farm Bureau's display, one of five at the state fair, won second place in competition Monday, Roland Leeper, manager, said today on his return. A prize of $100 was awarded. First place went to the Mahoning county display and third to Van Wert.

The Marion county Bureau represented 17 central Ohio counties in the competition. The display, designed by Mr. Leeper and Charles Lee of the Bureau here, portrayed the work of the FHA in the county. It was 12 feet long and nine feet wide and made of neon tubing, wood and various other materials. It consisted of a miniature replica of the Farm Bureau offices and elevator here with neon wires extending to a model farm, signifying rural electrification.

The display will also be exhibited at the Marion county fair later this month, but will remain at Columbus the remainder of this week.

MARION LAWYERS IN NEW PARTNERSHIP

Dissolution of Guthery, Strelitz & Guthery Firm Announced.

The law firm of Guthery, Strelitz & Guthery today announced the dissolution of the partnership.

Frederick E. Guthery, who has been practicing law in Marion since 1891, and his son, Howard F. Guthery, who joined the firm in 1925, announced the formation of a partnership of Guthery & Guthery.

J. Malcolm Strelitz, who has been with the firm since 1914, and Harry L. Dowler who has been associated with the firm for two years, have formed a partnership for practice under the name of Strelitz & Dowler.

For the present both firms will occupy the offices previously occupied by Guthery, Strelitz & Guthery firm. As soon as suitable quarters are arranged, Strelitz & Dowler will announce the location of their offices and Guthery & Guthery will retain the offices both firms now occupy.

TALLULAH AND HUSBAND OFF TO QUIET HONEYMOON

Stage and Screen Star Says She Married Actor John Emery for Love That Will Endure.

By The Associated Press

JASPER, Ala., Sept. 1—Newlywed Tallulah Bankhead was honeymoon bound today with Actor John Emery, her husband of a day.

"I married for love," said the glamorous star of stage and screen, adding she never had been married before and "never would again."

Their marriage took place last night in the home of the bride's father, Speaker William B. Bankhead of the house of representatives.

Although their romance began a year ago, they surprised Broadway friends when they married here by chartered plane and came yesterday for the ceremony. Miss Bankhead said she was 34, her husband 32.

They met in Hollywood while Emery, son of Edward Emery, was playing with Katharine Cornell in "Saint Joan" and Tallulah was starring in "Reflected Glory."

The newlyweds planned to fly back to New York today and then go to Norwalk, Conn., for a quiet honeymoon on Long Island sound. Two weeks later they will return to Broadway to begin rehearsals in "Antony and Cleopatra," in which they will play together.

The bride will play the queen of the Nile; Emery to cast in the role of Octavius Caesar.

Barlow plans to be married when her father was again in Washington next Christmas were called. Armed three months ago when Miss Bankhead declared "This don't mean anything permanent."

The speaker, who gave his consent, very reluctantly, came to Jasper and then returned to Washington.

DAVEY TO PICK JUDGE SHORTLY

Nine on List of Probable Successors to Jones Who Died Yesterday.

WILL SERVE ONE YEAR

Sen. Lawrence of Cleveland and Sen. Garver of Millersburg Top Slate.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 1—While speculation ranged over at least nine names today for possible appointment to the Ohio supreme court, indications were that Gov. Martin L. Davey would fill the post before Sept. 27 when the court reconvenes.

That the appointee to fill the place of Judge Thomas A. Jones, who died yesterday after 22 years' service on the supreme court bench, would be a Democrat was a foregone conclusion among capitol observers.

Judge Jones' successor to the $10,000 a year post will serve until election of his successor in November, 1938.

Mentioned for appointment were: Sen. Keith Lawrence of Cleveland, president pro tem of the senate and youngest man on the list.

Former Judge Mentioned

Sen. William F. Garver of Millersburg, former supreme court judge for a short term and former common pleas and appellate judge;

Will P. Stephenson of Adams county, who served about five years on the supreme court bench under appointment by Gov. George White and by election in 1934, at present special counsel in the attorney general's office;

N. Craig McBride of Hillsboro, former common pleas and appellate judge, also mentioned for a new federal judgeship in southern Ohio;

Thomas H. Morrow of Cincinnati, also mentioned for the southern Ohio federal court post;

Lowell C. Bodey of Urbana, former common pleas and appellate judge, at present a member of the state liquor board;

Dennis F. Dunlavey of Ashtabula, recently appointed to the state utilities commission;

Bureau of Shelby County

J. D. Barnes of Shelby county, appellate judge and former common pleas judge; and

George P. Nye of Wayne, close friend of the governor and frequently suggested for the county common pleas judge to succeed the late jurist.

The names were not given in any particular sequence. Besides Lawrence, Garver and Stephenson, Arthur H. Day and Ben E. Williams and three Democrats, George S. Myers, Charles B. Sherman and Chas. Justice, Chillicothe Republican.

Funeral services for Judge Jones will be held at the Centenary M. E. church in Columbus at 10:30 a. m. Thursday, at which time Bishop Edwin H. Hughes of Washington, D. C., will officiate. Burial will be in Greenlawn cemetery.

Judge Matthias H. Bomberger, who succeeded Judge Jones' uncle, Judge Peter Zinn Jones, as judge of the common pleas court of Franklin county, Ohio, in 1913, and who was appointed by Governor Cox to succeed Judge Jones on the supreme court bench, but who declined the appointment, was a pallbearer at the funeral of Judge Jones.

Judge Bomberger was a member of the supreme court commission which drafted the new constitution for the state of Oklahoma.

CAR WRECKED IN MORROW CO.

Both Were Enrolled in CCC Camp at Mt. Vernon; Mishap Near Mt. Gilead.

VICTIM DIES INSTANTLY

Jacob Schroll, 17, Killed and Allen Dale Thompson Is Critically Injured.

A Marion youth was killed and another seriously injured early this morning when the automobile in which they were riding crashed into a guard rail east of Mt. Gilead on the Mt. Vernon road. Jacob Schroll, 17, of 171 St. Clair street was instantly killed when he was partially thrown through the windshield and pinned between the automobile and a post.

Allen Dale Thompson, 18, of 149 Sharpless court, accompanying Schroll, suffered a possible fractured skull, a cut on right eye lid and is still in semi-conscious condition at City hospital. Attendants said it will require several hours to determine his condition and the seriousness of his injuries.

The accident occurred about 4:20 a. m. as the young men, both enrollees at the CCC camp near Mt. Vernon were driving towards Mt. Gilead, presumably on their way to Marion. They had come down a steep hill about two and a half miles east of Mt. Gilead and were unable to make a sharp curve at the bottom. The car crashed headlong into the guard rail and pitched straight into the air, falling on its radiator.

Deputy Gives Account

Milton Griffin, Morrow county deputy sheriff, who investigated the accident, said Schroll was partly hurled through the windshield, his skull fractured, and chest crushed when he was caught between the car and a heavy wooden post of the guard rail. Thompson was found in the ditch near the car, and officials did not know whether he was thrown from the car or attempted to crawl out after the crash.

He was rushed to the Marion city hospital by Dr. Frank Sweeney of Mt. Gilead and the Craven funeral home ambulance, arriving here at 7:15. The body of Schroll was taken to the Craven funeral home and was brought to the M. H. Gunder & Son funeral home on West Center street at noon today.

Schroll was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Schroll of 171 St. Clair street. The parents of Thompson are both dead; according to attendants at City hospital, and he has been living with his sister, Mrs. Wilbur Clark at 149 Sharpless court. Both boys enrolled in the CCC camp from here in July.

A license plate on the car they were driving was listed at the Marion auto club here as having been issued to Joe Halfhill of 124 Wallace street, in Marion.

The connection of the boys to the automobile in which they were riding has not been determined by officials. Mr. Halfhill was summoned to Mt. Gilead this morning by officials to aid in the investigation. Mrs. Halfhill said one of the license plates of their automobile has been missing since early this year, but that their automobile is still in the possession of Mr. Halfhill who drove it to Mt. Gilead this morning.

Wool Market

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, Sept. 1—The wool market continued very quiet today and slightly easier undertone was noted as some houses showed an inclination to consider bids that were not acceptable last week.

Most holders, however, were not inclined to make any changes in asking prices. The easier tone was a reaction to the fastness in prices that have developed in Australia since the opening there last Monday.

STOCK SALES SPREE WANES

Liquidation Slows Up After Sending List Down Two Points.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 1—Although pressure on steels dragged the market down fractions to two or more points today, selling dried up around the fourth hour.

Utilities displayed more resistance than most other groups, and analysts attributed this in part to the comparatively steady rate of power production.

Predictions of less robust steel business this fall put this group under a cloud, and with many traders unsure of general business trends, other parts of the list lacked support.

Issues which found the going hard much of the time were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Crucible Steel, Vanadium, American Rolling Mill, Wheeling Steel, National Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, Goodyear, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, International Harvester, Anaconda Wesinghouse, Baltimore & Ohio, and Union Carbide.

Phillips Petroleum met with selling, and at one time was down more than two following the company's announcement of steps to issue new stock.

Bonds were uneven. Grains and cotton were narrow.

Share market experts stressed the diversity of influence which have been depressing prices and compressing volume. Among factors cited were recent declines in commodities, the slower pace of retail trade in some sectors, throttling down of production in some industries, higher manufacturing costs, strife in the far east and the as yet untested reaction of consumers to higher retail prices.

At the start of trading Wall Street men perused statistical evidence of a slower industrial pace.

In the week ended Aug. 28, output of electricity dropped 4 of one per cent from the previous week in which an historic high was reached. Analysts centered attention on the pronounced slowing down of the rate of gain in consumption of power in the central industrial district, reported by Edison Electric Institute.

Brokers noted "Iron Age" questioned whether fall demand for steel would come up to expectations of early summer.

"The current outlook points to increasing tonnage in the lighter products, particularly sheets and trip and wire products, but not much improvement in the immediate future in the heavy products such as shapes, plates, pipe and rails," the survey said.

COURT NEWS

Bank Hearing Set

Common Pleas Judge Hector S. Young has set Sept. 13 at 10 a. m. for hearing on the application of the state superintendent of banks for permission to turn over all remaining assets of the closed Commercial bank to a committee of trustees for benefit of the creditors.

The application lists assets of $115,187.27, many of them worthless, and others doubtful, and claims of $118,708.86. The claims have been filed by various public officials for public funds on deposit when the bank closed, approximately 25 small depositors and R. E. White as trustee for Marion banks which helped pay off the small depositors of the Commercial bank when it closed.

The city board of education claims $20,034.51; Marion township, $7,711.95; Marion county, $42,154.76; county sinking fund trustees, $2,903.62; city treasurer, $1,001.17, and Mr. White, $43,168.47.

The decision to file the application followed a meeting of creditors of the bank last month at the liquidation office when a resolution was passed to that effect. If the application is approved the state banking superintendent will be relieved of all further responsibilities and the following committee will take over the winding up of the bank's affairs: Edson L. Bush, G. C. Snyder, F. C. Gegenheimer and Fred E. Guthery. An agent would be employed by them to make collection of assets and distribute proceeds.

Divorce Actions

Decree granted—To Chester E. Berry from Grace Berry, grounds of gross neglect and extreme cruelty, custody of three minor children awarded plaintiff; Homer E. Johnson, plaintiff's attorney.

A marriage license was granted yesterday in probate court to Vincent R. Clement, painter and welder of 413 Girard avenue, and Marjorie G. Dusang of 902 Woodrow avenue.

Answers Loan Suit

L. Gail Jones filed her answer and cross petition yesterday in common pleas court to the request of the receiver of the closed Citizens Building & Loan Co. for a determination of the status of approximately 800 account holders. She contends she has a claim against the receiver for $1,000 in stock in the American Building & Loan Co. which was transferred to the Citizens company in December of 1930. She said the transfer was made "as a result of representations made by authorized representatives of the Citizens Building & Loan Co. that the stock of the American Building & Loan Co. when transferred would be worth $100 a share, that the Citizens Building & Loan Co. was solvent, which statements were untrue and made for the purpose of procuring said transfer."

She said she has claims of $136 and $400 against the receiver for deposits in the Citizens company. She asks that the status of her claims be decided by the court. W. P. Moloney is her attorney.

BUYING LIFTS WHEAT BUT GAIN NOT HELD

Rain in Argentine Clips Advance Amid New Wave of Selling.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 1 — Enlarged buying around noon today temporarily lifted wheat prices about a cent above the previous close but the gain could not be held.

Late selling that beat values back to yesterday's finishing level was associated to some extent with an apparently authoritative cable indicating rain was falling in Argentina and that fairly general moisture relief might occur. Traders said foreign importers' demand for American wheat might depend to a large extent on the size of the Argentine crop this season.

Wheat closed ⅝ higher to ⅝ lower compared with Tuesday's finish, September 1.03⅝@04, December 1.03¾@⅞, and corn was ⅛ up to 2¼ down, September 80⅝@⅞, December 62¼@⅜. Oats were unchanged to ⅝ up.

BANKRUPTCY ACT EXPLAINED

Aimed To Rehabilitate Poor and Honest Debtors, Referee Says in Talk Here.

Bankruptcy as the most effective step for relief of honest debtors whose affairs have become hopelessly involved was the topic of an interesting talk given in the Marion Rotary club's weekly luncheon meeting yesterday at Hotel Harding by Walter S. Jackson of Lima, referee in bankruptcy for the Northern district of Ohio.

Comparing it with a surgical operation for cure of a person's physical ailments, Mr. Jackson recommended it as an economic remedy.

"If needed, take it; if not needed, leave it alone. But before deciding which course to pursue, consult experts on the subject," was Referee Jackson's final admonition.

"The only trouble with the bankruptcy act as now administered," he said, "is that the poor debtor does not take it earlier."

Futile Efforts

His explanation of this was that too many of them strive to get their affairs straightened out by other means after a hopeless stage has been reached. This, he said, is unfortunate for both debtor and creditors, for by the time the depleted assets are listed with the referee, often nothing but a "hollow shell" is left and the distribution to creditors is meager. By effecting a distribution earlier, and by avoiding mortgage commitments, the debtor is assured exemption benefits and the creditors receive larger shares.

"The worse thing that can happen to a failing business," Mr. Jackson declared, "is to have extensive credit."

The early part of the talk gave a history of bankruptcy, starting back in Biblical times and leading up through the era when debtors were punished as criminals. The first mention to bankruptcy, Mr. Jackson said, is in the history of Judea. His account carried through to 1800, when this country's first bankruptcy act was passed on the basis of a provision in the Constitution.

Now Covers About All

From 1898 to 1933, he said, the United States laws provided that any person or business could become a voluntary bankrupt with the exception of municipalities, railway, insurance and banking corporations. Now this has been changed so that the bankruptcy privilege is applicable virtually without exceptions.

"The purpose of the bankruptcy law," he said, "is to rehabilitate the honest debtor and to restore him to his family and to society."

Mr. Jackson was introduced to the club by Alfred Donithon, attorney and Rotary program chairman for the day.

Special guests in addition to Rotary members were members of the Marion Barristers' club and the Marion County Bar association.

DOROTHY THOMPSON VIEWS TOPICS OF DAY

thousand oaths of Allegiance.

Apparently it has not occurred to you, Mr. Minister, that we may not want to be saved for Nazism. In our crazy American way, we prefer order and freedom as we conceive it, to what you conceive it to be. We prefer trial by jury to trial by bludgeon. We prefer free speech to a prostituted press. We prefer free universities, free science and free art, to education, science and art dictated by a political party. The right to worship however, wherever and whatever we please is written in our Constitution, and we have not yet taken to framing priests and nuns or to putting pastors into concentration camps. We don't forbid Americans to join Rotary Clubs, as you recently forbade your citizens—on the ground that no German could belong to an organization having international affiliations. And we wonder, how in the face of that, you can have the effrontery to contemplate establishing an international propaganda organization on our soil. In this country a man can join the Elks, the Beavers, the Moose, the Masons, the Knights of Columbus or the CIO, providing he keeps the law. But if he acts as the agent of a foreign government, we consider him a spy.

Any time that an American wants to travel, all he has to do is pack his bag and leave. In your country he has to beg for 610 worth of foreign exchange and agree to be back by Saturday night. We can spend our money where we choose and for what we choose. Your citizens must buy where they are told and what a political party permits them to buy. We can work at what we please and where we please. In your country a man who leaves his farm is regarded as a "deserter" and can be punished. If an American wants to import a giraffe, he can do it. But you, Mr. Minister, can import only what a political party allows you to import.

We have our quarrels, Mr. Minister, but we haven't put them in uniforms and turned them loose on the rest of the world.

FORMER DELAWARE RESIDENT DIES HERE

Mrs. Catherine Gatton, 83, Passes Away at Daughter's Home on N. Vine St.

Mrs. Catherine Eesig Gatton, 83, a resident of Delaware many years, died yesterday afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Florence Van Horn of 135 North Vine street of heart trouble and complications of age.

In addition to Mrs. Van Horn, she leaves a daughter, Mrs. Mamie Nickels of 731 Bellefontaine avenue, and three sons, Ray Slack, Harry Slack and William Gatton, all of Delaware.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 10 a. m. at the Morrison funeral home in Delaware and burial will be made in Oak Grove cemetery at Delaware.

Mrs. Gatton was born in New Orleans, La., and moved with her family to Delaware when she was 13 years of age. She remained in Delaware until seven years ago when she came to Marion to make her home with her daughter. She was married twice. Her husbands, Lewis Slack and William Gatton, preceded her in death. She was a member of the Methodist church.

Thomas Finch, a WPA music instructor, and eight of his pupils played two Hawaiian guitar selections and two of the group played a duet number. Martha Lewis played and sang three numbers and Miss Isabelle Savage, who is in charge of the WPA piano department, played two numbers.

Tom Mix and his circus will be in Marion on Saturday, Sept. 18 according to announcement received here yesterday from the show's business office.

Advance men are expected to arrive in the next few days to put up circus posters in the city and throughout the surrounding territory, and to make arrangements as to which show grounds will be used.

IT'S ODD
But It's Science

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

NEW YORK—It looks as if the old verses about the speedy gal who arrived before she started are about to come true literally, in aviation.

A speed of 430 miles with an engine of 2,200 horsepower won the Schneider trophy. It is calculated in the British science journal, Nature, that in the stratosphere this same engine would have given a speed of 500 miles an hour. This would be due to the lowered resistance of the air.

This speed, the scientists point out, would mean five hours for a trip from London to New York. That is exactly the time the sun's advancing sunrise shadow takes to travel from London to New York. This means that aviation already has an engine capable of speeding westward as fast as time.

By clocking "daylight" time at one end, the existing engine would make it possible for a Londoner to reach New York one hour before he left London.

MRS. HARRY DOWLER LEAVES HOSPITAL

Marion Woman Taken to Home of Sister After Accident in Michigan.

Mrs. Harry L. Dowler of 242 Cumming avenue, who was injured in an automobile accident at Coldwater, Mich., Sunday, was to be removed from Wade Memorial hospital in Coldwater to the home of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Al Cish at Battle Creek, Mich., today, Mr. and Mrs. William Dowler of South Vine street, who returned from Coldwater last night, reported.

Mrs. Dowler suffered head injuries and shock. With her in the accident were Mr. Dowler and their two children, and Mr. Dowler's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Dowler. Mrs. William Dowler sustained two broken ribs on her left side, and Mr. Dowler and his son suffered sprained necks. The children were not injured.

Mrs. Harry Dowler's injuries are not serious, hospital attaches said, and an X-ray taken yesterday disclosed there was no fracture of the skull. She will remain at the Cish home until she is well enough to be removed to her home here.

The accident occurred at a highway intersection in Coldwater when the Dowler car was struck by another car.

The families had been visiting Mrs. Cish, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Dowler.

INJURED TRANSFER WORKER IMPROVING

Charles Cramer of 897 North Main street, employe of the Wright Transfer & Storage Co., was reported to be recovering satisfactorily today from a burn in the palm of one hand, suffered when he was caught in a short circuit while unloading news print yesterday at The Star freight elevator.

The attending physician said the burn was small and that Mr. Cramer should be able to return to work the first of the week.

The short circuit was between an electric motor and the elevator, and was caused by Mr. Cramer leaning against a metal wire conduit leading to the motor while he reached out with his right hand to pull a metal cable to lower the elevator from the sidewalk level to the basement.

REV. SEAGER, 78, TAKEN BY DEATH

Rev. Lawrence Seager, 78, bishop emeritus of the General Evangelical church, a visitor in Marion on a number of occasions, died 20 years ago, died Monday in LeMars, Ia., according to a news report.

Bishop Seager was a guest preacher in Marion in 1916. He has not visited here for many years. He was a native of Sandusky county, O., and a member of the Fremont church.

Surviving are his widow and three children.

A service in Naperville, Ill., where Mrs. Seager will be buried, will be held tomorrow.

37 MORE FILE AS CANDIDATES

Enter for Places on Village and Township Tickets in November Election.

Thirty-seven more candidates for village and township positions filed their nominating petitions yesterday and this morning with the board of elections and others were expected to pour in before the filing deadline at 4:30 p. m. Friday.

C. C. Ritsler, deputy clerk of the board, said there will be no extension of time. PATTERN 4488.

The Stars Say--

For Thursday, Sept. 2.

AN EVENTFUL and memorable day is presaged from the powerful planetary operations. Matters of first importance and far-reaching effect will occur, in culmination to a period of static or stagnation. Breaking away from these congestions may result in radical change, with new interests of major significance, and with associations and environs strange and quite unforeseen.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of notable events, with many sudden things precipitating that will have strong bearing on the future life, its contacts, environs and interests. Change, removal, travel, adventure and romance looms, with elderly women playing important roles. High tensions of initiative and enterprise will engineer such moves into fortune, with increased values in real possessions and other stabilizing factors for progress and prosperity.

A child born on this day may have many talents, energies and graces for a successful, progressive career. It may be profound and steady as well as gentle, friendly, attractive and romantic.

To meet a shortage of grease Germany will endeavor to recover from 24,000 to 36,000 tons a year from city drain pipes.

CRASH FATAL TO FIVE LAID TO FAST DRIVER

Coroner Blames Speeding Motorist in Goshen, Ind., Bus-Auto Collision.

By The Associated Press

GOSHEN, Ind., Sept. 1—Coroner Karl Vetter blamed today a "speeding motorist who failed to observe a stop sign" for the terrific bus-automobile crash near here which left five dead and more than 30 injured, none seriously.

"I have been told by numerous witnesses that the motorist went through the sign at a high rate of speed, causing the collision," the coroner said, "I plan to question others and announce my verdict possibly tonight."

The motorist, Allison Bishopric, 65, of Cincinnati, O., was one of those killed.

Lee Callahan, 32, of Toledo, O., bus driver, told newsmen Bishopric's heavy automobile was "coming like Hell" through the intersection shortly before noon yesterday.

"I couldn't avoid hitting the car broadside," Callahan said He suffered cuts, bruises and shock

The bus, a cruiser-type transport vehicle, rolled end over end after the crash, coming to a halt on its top. The bus and the automobile were wrecked completely. The interior of the bus became a tangled mass of bodies and luggage when the top crushed against the seats Some of the victims could not be extricated until the vehicle was righted.

Survivors told graphic stories of the crash.

Charles Brady, 28, of Carrollville, Wis., only slightly hurt, said, "I was asleep at the time in the middle of the bus I woke up as the bus turned over and managed somehow to crawl out Every one was screaming."

James Kelleher, 27, of Chicago, said, "we were stuck in there. We couldn't get out. It happened so quickly I don't know just what occurred."

Kelleher was cut and bruised, but his wife, 24, was one of those killed.

Others killed were John H. Heinsohn, 70, of Buffalo, N. Y.; Alfred G. Carpentier, 22 of Iowa City, Ia., and Raymond J. Bufkin, bus Negro porter of Chicago, all in the bus.

U. S. Ships May Reenter Shanghai Soon

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1—Intimations came from high officials today that American merchant ships soon will be allowed to resume calls at the strife-torn port of Shanghai.

Informed persons said there probably would be increased watchfulness from navy vessels over American ships, but it was unlikely the navy would formally convoy them in and out of the port at this time

Secretary Hull at a press conference referred to the navy order closing Shanghai to American merchant vessels as one for "the time being."

He has made it clear that this government intends to maintain its interests in the Orient, looking upon the current Sino Japanese conflict as an incident which should not interfere with its long-time policy in the far east.

The naval ban on the Shanghai port was ordered by Admiral Harry E Yarnell, commander of the Asiatic fleet, after the Dollar liner President Hoover was bombed by a Chinese warplane.

Nearly 2,000 American nationals remain in the danger zone and officials have said the government means to preserve avenues of escape for them

If commercial ships are excluded from Shanghai, it will be the responsibility of the navy to remove them on gunboats, a method officials have made apparent the government would prefer to avoid.

Hull said, however he expected to confer with naval officers on the best methods of evacuation

To other demands for invocation of the neutrality act were added requests from five organizations, including World Peaceways The others were the National Council for Prevention of War, Emergency Peace campaign, the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, and the Fellowship of Reconciliation.

In a joint statement, they demanded to know "on which grounds does the state department justify a policy which looks toward one or two alternatives—war or the application of neutrality under humiliating pressure."

The peace groups said that if this government permits the freighter Wichita to proceed with its airplane cargo to China, the repercussions might be grave. The Wichita sailed from Baltimore last week with 19 airplanes were on deck, some looking through telescopes toward the coast.

"They saw the plane approaching. It circles over the President Hoover twice and then, without warning, dropped the first bomb from a height of no more than 150 feet

"The passengers were thrown into a terrible fright but there was no panic. They responded in orderly fashion to my orders to vacate the decks

"The first and second bombs missed. But the third bomb struck.

"Following the explosion, the plane ascended and dropped a fourth which also missed. There was a terrified explosion, nevertheless The ship rolled heavily and her clocks stopped.

"Heavy damage was done to her funnels, boat deck and nine first class cabins

"Haskell's legs were shorn off.

"The firemen's and oilers' quarters resembled a sieve from fragments of flying metal

"Within a half hour Japanese warships were alongside, offering every medical and other aid."

BRITISH DESTROYER FIRED AT OFF SPAIN

Admiralty Sends Two Other Warships to Attacked Vessel's Assistance.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Sept. 1 — An unidentified submarine fired a torpedo at the British destroyer Havock off the eastern Spanish coast today and the admiralty rushed two destroyers to her assistance.

The Havock was not hit in the attack, midway between Alicante and Valencia. Simultaneously, Spanish insurgent planes bombed and forced ashore the Greek cargo steamer Tspro, 20 miles north of Barcelona. The helmsman was killed and one sailor wounded.

French quarters in London said they hoped the attack on the British destroyer would spur Britain to "take action" and added that "exchanges with this in view are proceeding between London and Paris"

France brought strong pressure to have the Spanish civil war non-intervention committee take up the attacks on shipping and the role of Italian volunteers in the insurgent capture of Santander.

The Havock was the 18th ship to be involved in submarine or air attacks in the Mediterranean since Aug. 1.

The most important incidents involved the British ship British Corporal, bombed Aug. 6, the Campeador, Spanish, torpedoed and sunk Aug. 12, the George W. McKnight Panamanian, shelled and set afire Aug 14, and the Noemijulia, British, bombed Aug 28

On Monday the Soviet freighter Timiryazev was torpedoed and sunk off the Algerian coast.

Submarines attacked the French ship Parame Aug. 13 and the Spanish ship Ciudad De Reus Aug 30.

After the bombing of the Noemijulia, the British government threatened reprisals.

The Greek freighter bombed today was carrying ammunition to government Spain and was being escorted by two government planes, which were driven off by the attackers

Speeding to the aid of the Havock were the destroyer Hyperion and the flotilla leader Hardy

GAS RATE DECISION LAUNCHES DISPUTE

regulate the price which such company may charge for gas With this I am not in accord

Power Rests With State

"The power to regulate public utilities rests in this state. Utility regulation is a legislative function of the government, and this power, generally referred to as a police power, must be exercised either directly by the state or delegated to some political subdivision or special agency.

"What will be the effect of a rate fixed by the commission upon application? The commission proceeds to fix and determine the just and reasonable rate and then we find in the section a provision that thereafter no change in the rate shall be made without the order of the commission

"Would it therefore not follow, that after a rate has been fixed upon such an application, the municipality is ever after divested of all right to fix a rate by ordinance?"

Schaber said his position was identical with a position taken by the utilities commission more than 17 years ago when it refused to put into effect a schedule proposed by the Ohio Electric Railway Co in Lima, after the city had passed an ordinance fixing rates to be charged by the company within the city, despite the fact that the ordiance had been passed after the company filed an application for a rate increase.

Schaber said his view did not apply to telephone rate cases, since the law did not authorize municipal councils to fix telephone rates.

PARALYSIS DELAYS OPENING OF SCHOOLS

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 1 — Chicago health authorities, faced with the largest number of August infantile paralysis cases in city history, postponed reopening of school for 618,000 children today "until the peak of this disease has been reached and the sickness is definitely on the wane."

Public and parochial schools were scheduled to reopen next week. Postponement was ordered after the board of health found 109 cases of the disease were reported last month. The previous peak was 99 cases in August, 1916.

Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, board president, said the disease rapidly was "approaching an epidemic stage" and the majority of cases reported were from school age group.

3-Cent Stamps Most Profitable Postoffice Items

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1 — Postal officials who sell millions of dollars worth of postage stamps, money-orders and savings certificates across the counter annually said today the three-cent stamp is the most profitable item on the shelf.

"Three-cent stamps netted us a profit of $92,898,151 in fiscal 1926 and probably even more during fiscal 1927," one official said. "It's our best seller."

First class postage revenues, exclusive of letters delivered locally, totaled $285,923,254 in 1926, he estimated, while expenditures totaled only $193,085,103. Local letter mail netted a profit of $15,996,562.

WATCHMAN RETIRES FROM DELAWARE JOB

Railroader Plans To Visit Daughter After 46 Years in Signal Tower.

By The Associated Press

DELAWARE, O., Sept. 1—John M. Cryder, who pulled levers in a railroad signal tower for 16 years without a vacation, busied himself around his home today preparing for a visit with his daughter as he started his first day of retirement

The watchman for the Cheasapeake & Ohio who admitted that he "took a few days off to go to the Chicago worlds' fair in 1893" was enjoying his first vacation. He is 67, two years past the retirement age

His first trip, he said, would be with his wife to visit his daughter in Washington C H. and later he planned to join a brother on a trip to California. This will be made by automobile, not trains, he said

When he first went to work at the crossing 46 years ago the Big Four was the main line but today it is a one-train-a-day division of the line.

Giving the green light for thousands of trains to roar through on a clear track, he has seen the lines develop from 15-car freight trains to the day of great engines that draw 160 cars

When he began work in 1891 coal cars were 10-ton vehicles, Cryder recalled. Today they carry 100 tons

"I've worked every day with the exception of possibly a dozen days when I attended funerals of relatives and friends," he said "I've never had a sick day in my life"

NAVY TO EVACUATE U. S. WAR REFUGEES

By The Associated Press

HYDE PARK, N Y Sept. 1—Summer White House officials said today the United States government would rely on existing naval vessels in the far east to evacuate Americans still in danger zones

The announcement was made following a conference between President Roosevelt and Admiral William D. Leahy, chief of naval operations, at the Roosevelt home.

Officials said the President and the high naval official went over the "whole problem" in the Sino-Japanese situation. They added there was no need for additional naval vessels at Shanghai and vicinity

SIR MALCOLM WINS SPEEDBOAT RECORD

By The Associated Press

LOCARNO, Switzerland Sept. 1—Sir Malcolm Campbell famed British sportsman, added the world's motorboat speed record to his international automobile speed standard today.

The 52-year-old Briton piloted his 23-foot speedboat, Bluebird over Lake Maggiore's smooth waters at a rate of 125 795 miles an hour to eclipse Gar Wood's five-year-old mark of 124 91 miles per hour.

Sir Malcom already holds the world automobile record of 301.33 miles per hour, set at Bonneville Salt flats in Utah in 1935.

WHO'S WHO HERE

By The Associated Press

KENNETT SQUARE, Pa., Sept. 1—The will of Mrs. Stella H. Tingley proved a headache to Chester county legal authorities. It contained bequests of $300 each to the "ice man" and "milkman;" $150 to the "laundry man," $100 to "the colored lady" and $50 to "the new grocery boy." The task of identifying them was up to the court.

Terms of Public Officials Are Real Chinese Puzzle

Vary in Length and Time of Beginning; Homer D. Cole, Elected Last November, Starts New Term.

With numerous laws passed by the state legislature in recent years affecting the terms of public offices even officials of the board of elections have to think twice and occasionally refer to their records to learn when terms begin and end.

Some terms are two years, some are four, one is six, some are staggered and some are not. They begin everywhere from the first of the year to the first Monday in September.

Election board officials would venture no explanation for the lengthening of the terms. Associations of public officials had considerable lobbying in recent year to have the terms lengthened.

County Treasurer Homer D. Cole, elected last November to a four-year term, begins his new period in office next Monday. He is the last of those elected in November to begin a new term.

Ends Two-Year Term

Mr. Cole is now winding up his first, a two-year term. His term will end on the first Monday in September of 1941.

Several county offices began their first four-year terms this year under a new law. They were Recorder Paul H. Naber, County Coroner M. F. Axthelm, Prosecuting Attorney Paul D. Michel, Sheriff Fred F. Miller and Clerk of Courts Carl F. Haberman. They took office on the first Monday of this year.

County offices which have had four-year terms for the last several years under laws passed about 1927 or 1928, according to election officials, are those of engineer, auditor, commissioner and probate judge. All these with the exception of the probate judge began their terms on the first Monday of this year. The judge's term began on Feb. 2.

Only two county commissioners were elected in November, the terms being staggered. The third, O. C. McCurdy, will be up for election again in 1938, while J. O. Weiss and L. J. Culbeck are in the first year of terms which do not expire until Dec. 31, 1940.

The common pleas judge, now Hector S. Young, who was elected in 1934, has a six-year term which will not expire in Marion county until early in 1941. The office has been for six years for some time, election officials said.

The office of county representative to the state legislature is still two years and the length of the term cannot be changed without a constitutional amendment. Rep Samuel Almendinger took office early this year and his term will not expire until 1939.

In the city government, all elective offices are for two years with the exception of auditor which is now four. J. L. Landes, present auditor, will not be up for election until 1939, election officials said. The five-member city board of education has four-year terms. The terms are staggered, however, and only two members will be up for election this fall.

In the county board of education with five members also, the four-year terms are staggered. Three members will be up for election this year.

In the rural school boards which also have five members and terms of four years, two members are elected one year and three two years later.

All village officials are for two years, but township offices will undergo a change beginning the first of next year. This fall two trustees will be elected for four years and one trustee and the clerk for two years. Two years from this fall a clerk will be elected for four years and one trustee for four years. Justices of the peace are for four years and constables for two years.

What To Do-

If You Get Lost in a Forest

1. Send out an SOS—three signals in quick succession repeated at regular intervals. You can do this by . . .

A. Blowing a whistle. If you haven't one with you use your lips.

B. Sending up smoke signals, if there's no danger of a forest fire, regulated by a blanket or coat.

C. Using a mirror to flash sun signals.

D. Building three small fires in a row, if it's night, or . . .

E. Turning a light on and off three times in succession.

By The Associated Press

The National Forest Service approves all these methods but is trying to make whistling the standard call for help. It urges persons to carry a whistle when they go into the woods. The whistle is light to carry, far more penetrating and less exhausting than vocal calls.

The insistent regularity of the signals, no matter how given, will distinguish them from casual calls, says the forest service. But they must not be used except when help is absolutely required. For anyone hearing them is morally obligated to either go himself or send aid. The person lost is expected to stand the cost of rescue.

When a person hears the SOS he should acknowledge it with the customary railroad "all clear" of two signals—if possible, by the same medium the sender is using.

The rescue party should keep repeating the two signals and the person in trouble should answer with the three to facilitate discovery.

LOCAL REPUBLICANS TO MEET HAMILTON

Warner and Lawson Invited to Dinner at Alliance on Sept. 9.

Fred W. Warner, Eighth district member of the Republican State Central committee, and Bud H. Lawson, Marion County Republican Central and Executive Committee chairman, have been invited to attend a dinner meeting to be given at the Alliance Country club Sept. 9 to compliment Frank F. Taggart of Massillon, Ohio, Republican National committeeman. John Hamilton, national chairman of the Republican party, and Ed Schorr, Republican state chairman, are to be among those present. Mr. Warner and Mr. Lawson plan to attend a luncheon with a group of other Republicans from northern Ohio at Canton before attending the dinner meeting.

Thomas C. Jenkins of Ironton, a Republican member of congress for the last 14 years, visited at Mr. Warner's office in Marion Monday on a tour of part of the state preliminary to deciding on his possible candidacy for the United States senate seat now occupied by Senator Robert Bulkley of Cleveland.

CANDIDATES KEEP PRIMARY COST LOW

Winners Spend $3.25 and Losers $12.30 Each, Election Records Show.

All 33 candidates in Marion city's primary early this month spent less than a single candidate in the election last November, a comparison showed yesterday as the last two accounts were filed with the board of elections. The total cost to the candidates was $180.47 while last November the average cost per candidate was $154.74. The cost was the lowest in recent years, officials said.

Fifteen Republicans spent only $23 or $1.30 each while 18 Democrats spent $157.47 or $8.70 apiece. Eleven Republicans and six Democrats spent nothing at all. The largest account was that of Harry E. Farley, unsuccessful candidate for the Democratic Third ward council nomination. He spent $26.03.

Losers spent $12.30 each as compared with only $3.25 for the winners. The reasons for the difference lies in the fact that many of the winners were unopposed and hence did not have to campaign.

The last three candidates to file were C. K. Mercer, unsuccessful candidate for the Democratic nomination for mayor, $21.50; Donald Slane, unsuccessful candidate for Democratic nomination for Third ward council, 35, and Welcome P. Cass, Republican nominee for First ward council, none.

LOUIS WON'T FIGHT GERMAN THIS FALL

Doctors Urge Bomber to Rest Two to Six Months.

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, Sept. 1—A defense of the heavyweight title against Max Schmeling this fall was announced as definitely out of the picture for Joe Louis today.

A rest of two months, possibly six, was recommended for Louis by physicians who studied x-ray photographs of the hands he injured in defending his title against Tommy Farr Monday night in New York.

No fracture was disclosed but the X-rays showed badly bruised muscles and tendons around the knuckles of the right hand and slightly less serious bruises on the left.

When the findings were telegraphed to John Roxborough Louis' co-manager, in New York it was announced the Schmeling bout was definitely off for this fall.

"When I fight that boy I don't want to have to worry about my hands," said Joe. "I'll be glad to rest."

Louis said he injured his right when he missed a blow and landed on top of Farr's head.

A meeting in honor of mothers as guests was held last Wednesday afternoon at the school house, by the "Nimble Thimble" and "Willing Workers" 4-H clubs.

A program including the following numbers by the girls was enjoyed: song "America," by the entire group; a trio number by Esther Augenstein, Juanita Retterer and Norma Cook; recitation, "My Mama's Strike," by Mary Jane Healea; recitation, "I Didn't Know" by Betty Denman. A style show followed by girls of the "Nimble Thimble" club and an exhibit of projects by the "Willing Workers" club. A pot luck supper was enjoyed by all.

In Ohio History

(From the J. H. Galbraith collection of Ohio historica, written for The Associated Press.)

SERVED AN EXTRA YEAR

When Andrew L. Harris succeeded to the office of governor in June, 1906, after the death of Gov. John Pattison, it had been necessary to extend the term of the governor to three years in order to conform to the constitutional amendment governing the biennial election rule.

Harris was nominated by his party for lieutenant governor when Warren G. Harding declined to take nomination for a second term. Harding was ambitious to be governor and by this act lost an opportunity to reach that office. By law also Harris was entitled to pay as governor at $10,000 a year, being the first governor to be so, but he declined to take the increase when told that if Governor Pattison had lived he would not have been entitled to it.

Social Affairs

HOLLIDAY festivities at the Marion Country club Monday will include a family party in the afternoon and evening, plans for which are being announced today by the committee headed by Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Felt, chairman. Golf in the afternoon will be followed by a buffet supper at 6 o'clock. Reservations for the supper must be made not later than Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock, the committee announces. In addition to celebrating Labor day the party will be the last family party on this season's club calendar. Assisting Mr. and Mrs. Felt on the host and hostess committee are Mr. and Mrs. James R. Smith, vice chairmen, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Darnell, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Hughes and Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Closser.

PLANS for the season's activities will be launched at a meeting of the Women's Symphony board Thursday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. Paul D. Michel at 531 Bellefontaine avenue. The meeting is scheduled for 2 o'clock.

B. H. KLEINMAIER of Columbus will be a guest speaker when the Marion Garden club meets Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of the Misses Gorham on South Main street. His topic will be "September Gardening." Miss Maude Gorham is president of the club.

All young people of the church are invited to attend a wiener roast which is being sponsored by the Senior Young People's union of Trinity Baptist church Friday evening. All young people planning to attend are asked to meet at the church at 6:30 o'clock. The place has not been decided upon.

Marion Couple Receive Guests On Anniversary

APPROXIMATELY 200 guests were received by Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Wise yesterday afternoon and evening at their home at 883 East Center street, in observance of their fifty-fifth wedding anniversary. The occasion also marked the seventy-fifth birthday anniversary of Mrs. Wise.

The celebrants were joined by their children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren for a family dinner at noon, and received their guests from 2 o'clock in the afternoon until 10 in the evening. Mrs. Wise received in a gown of blue transparent velvet and wore a corsage of roses.

A large anniversary cake decorated the table for the family dinner, and flowers carried out a decorative note throughout the rooms. Refreshments were served during the afternoon and evening and entertainment included an informal musical program by the Calvary Evagelical church orchestra, under the direction of Homer E. Huffman, and Mrs. Joseph Baker who played several piano numbers. The guests joined the celebrants in singing at various times during the afternoon and evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Wise received a number of remembrances and gifts flowers, and congratulatory telegrams, letters and cards.

CALEDONIA GRANGE PRESENTS PROGRAM

Caledonia grange presented a program at a meeting of Grand Prairie grange last night in the school building northwest of Marion. Mrs. Forest Hipsher presided. In a short business session two applications were received and plans made to sponsor an exhibit at the Marion County fair. Mrs. Paul Lill was appointed to arrange for the exhibit.

Musical numbers were presented by John Dice and Jacob Reed, and Forest Hipsher accompanied by Mrs. Hipsher, sang a solo. A reading by Mrs. Hipsher was followed by tap dance numbers by Dorothy and Kathryn Robinson, accompanied at the piano by Dorothy Burley. Mary Mathias and Miss Jean Hodge entertained with a guitar duet.

Refreshments were served by a committee composed of Mrs. Ralph Lucas, Mrs. C. M. Peterson and Mrs. Fred Gilbert.

Your Health

BY DR. R. S. COPELAND

Chronic Ailments.

RECENTLY I told you something about the chronic degenerative diseases of middle age. Today I want to tell you more about some of the chronic diseases that too often shorten the span of life.

Modern man is blessed with the advantages and protection of the age in which he lives. But too often this security is misleading and dangerous. It may promote indifference and neglect of disorders which require medical care.

It is true that the average length of life today, as compared to that of former years, has been greatly lengthened. The life expectancy at birth has increased to approximately 57 years for boys and approximately 60 years for girls.

These statistics are indeed encouraging, but we must not overlook the fact that there has recently been a marked increase in the chronic disorders. There is no doubt that this progressive increase, if it continues, will serve ultimately to alter the average span of life and increase the death rate. I say this because more than 50 per cent of the deaths today are attributed to chronic disorders.

But how can we combat this danger? As I have frequently pointed out, it is imperative that every individual consult with the doctor at periodic intervals. This is especially advised for persons beyond 40 years of age. Bear in mind that each decade brings increasing hazards to health and life.

We can guard against these dangers only by consulting with the doctor long before serious and constant danger is present. By means of periodic health examination, we can take stock of body and health. It is unwise to wait until health has been impaired and then to resort to medicines and medical care.

Many of the chronic disorders can be prevented; therefore it is only logical to assume that we can easily solve the problem which confronts us. But it can only be done by thorough cooperation between the physician and the patient.

Do not ignore such simple symptoms as headache, palpitation of the heart, backache, excessive fatigue, indigestion, restlessness, insomnia and loss of weight. If you are in doubt about any sign or disorder of your body, consult with your doctor.

Mrs. C. G. Smith Is Hostess At Picnic for Altrusa Club

THE garden at the home of Mrs. C. G. Smith at 557 South Prospect street provided an attractive setting for a picnic given by the Marion Altrusa club for the pleasure of members of the Sandusky and Findlay clubs, last evening. The affair was arranged as a pre-season social gathering and to provide an opportunity for the guests to hear a report of the International Altrusa convention held early this summer in Mexico.

The 50 members and guests spent the early part of the evening in the garden where the picnic supper was served from a table centered with a colorful bouquet of fall flowers. Later they went into the house where Mrs. Valeria Stuckert, Mrs. G. M. Walker, Mrs. T. S. Cathers and Miss Mary Margaret O'Donnell, wearing Mexican costumes, talked informally on the convention and their trip through Mexico.

Guests included Miss Hilda Vinton, president, Dr. Helen F. Barnes, Miss Betty Hirzel, Miss Mary Morrison, Miss Ella Swartz, Miss Luella Coates, Dr. Alice E. Fuer and Mrs. Mary C. Bulfinch of the Findlay Altrusa club, Mrs. Mae Haase, Dr. Lottie Woodcox, Misses Willa Echols, Emma Haren and Cora Reemer of the Sandusky club, Mrs. Philip Von Blon of New York City, Mrs. Arthur Myers of Battle Creek, Mich., Mrs. Laura Dombaugh and Miss Maude Alter.

Arrangements for the picnic were in charge of the social committee composed of Miss Ruth Kramer, chairman, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Alice Mittenbuhler and Miss Mary Kull.

The 1937-38 season will open Sept. 14 with a business meeting at the home of Mrs. B. L. Wallace at 146 Homer street. Associate hostesses will be Dr. Dessie Goodwin and Mrs. Hazel Wiant.

The reunion will be held the last Sunday in August with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fisher at Basil.

UNDERWOOD

The thirty-seventh annual reunion of the Underwood family was held Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David L. Underwood of 325 South Grand avenue, with 52 relatives present. A basket dinner was served at noon, and the afternoon spent socially. Relatives were present from Washington, D. C., Lewistown, Pa., Fulton, Cardington, Mt. Gilead, Sparta, Caledonia and Martel. Officers chosen for next year are George W. Underwood, president, Will Neff of Martel, vice president, David Underwood, secretary and treasurer. The president will serve for four years. The day also celebrated the sixty-ninth birthday anniversary of the host, who has been confined to his bed by illness for nearly four years. The reunion next year will be held at the same place.

Four Youths Look for Adventure And Jobs in West

Four Marion young men, two of whom have won state honors as weight lifters, are making a trip in western states primarily in search of adventure but with an eye open for an opportunity to get into work of their liking.

They are John Gillespie of Prospect, Carl Primm of 538 Avondale avenue, Robert Moore of 583 Avondale avenue and Ward Riley, a quartet that for years has chummed together and discussed the possibilities of adventure in western states together.

Once before they made plans to go, but a last-minute development halted their preparations. On Aug. 14, however, they managed to set out on the trip in an automobile and a small trailer, equipped to live inexpensively and travel wherever opportunities appeared brightest.

The tour primarily is a pleasure trip, all four taking equipment for hunting and fishing, but the young men, whose ages are around 19 and 20, told relatives they may remain in the west indefinitely if they make connections with a mining or trapping outfit. All have read periodicals regularly dealing with wild life.

A postal card from them at Stanley, Idaho, told of their meeting an elderly trapper about whom they had read in magazines, and for the present they plan to hunt and trap with him. They told of traveling about 40 miles from Stanley where they left their automobile to continue into the woods 20 miles on foot, packing all of their supplies and equipment on their backs.

Moore won an Ohio weight lifting title several years ago and also won heavyweight honors for both Ohio and Kentucky. Primm placed second in the lightweight division of the state contest.

Personal Mention

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Jones and daughters of 699 Sugar street and Mr. and Mrs. Troy Kline and son of Caledonia spent the week-end with Mrs. Alice Stitt of Cleveland. They also attended the Cleveland-Washington baseball game and the Great Lakes exposition.

• • •

Dr. and Mrs. A. B. Lawson of East Center street left today by motor for the Great Smoky Mountains National park and other points of interest in West Virginia and Tennessee.

• • •

Mrs. Alice Minnick of Pearl street and her guest, Mrs. Lena Springer, have gone to Muncie, Ind., where they will visit for a week. Mrs. Springer will go to Chattanooga, Tenn., from Muncie for a brief visit before returning to her home in Jacksonville, Fla.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene B. Willey of 510 Mt. Vernon avenue will have as their guest for a week the latter's cousin, Miss Ann Pollock of Detroit, who will arrive Thursday.

Photographic prints intended for mural decorations as large as 42 inches wide by 25 feet long can be washed in tanks installed in a Chicago photographic plant.

RECOVERS HER SON

Discovering that her ex-husband, George Abel, had taken their five-year-old son to England despite a court ruling that he have custody of the child for only six weeks of the year, Mrs. Drew Pearson, now wife of the noted Washington correspondent, sailed secretly for England and recovered the child.

Miss Dusang and V. R. Clement Wed by Baptist Pastor

THE marriage of Miss Marjorie Dusang, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Dusang of 502 Woodrow avenue, to Vincent R. Clement of Marion took place last evening. The single ring service being read by Rev. H. M. Palmer, pastor of Fire Memorial Baptist church, at his home at 354 Blaine avenue. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Clement of Hepburn. The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Arliuss Walters of Ostrander.

The bride was costumed in a navy blue triple sheer crepe gown with harmonizing accessories and her shoulder corsage was fashioned of Johanna Hill roses. The matron of honor chose a gown in a rust shade with which she wore brown accessories. Her flowers were a corsage of Templar roses.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Clement left on a wedding trip to Niagara Falls, Canada, the New England states, New York City, Washington, D. C., and other points of interest. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Walters.

The bride was graduated from Harding High school in 1934 and from the Marion Business college a year later. Mr. Clement is a member of the graduating class of 1936 of the Kenton High school and Franklin university. In Columbus this year. He is employed with the Defiance Pressed Steel company. The couple will live in Marion.

ABOUT ANYTHING
IN AND AROUND MARION

ARE YOU ONLY A THREE-QUARTER WIFE?
THERE are certain things a woman has to put up with and be a good sport.
Men, because they are men, can never understand a three-quarter wife—a wife who is all love and kindness three weeks in a month and a hell cat the rest of the time.
No matter how your back aches—no matter how loudly your nerves scream—don't take it out on your husband.
For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."
Don't be a three-quarter wife, take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and Go "Smiling Through."

Vacation Thrills
Lots of vacations have sounded awfully good, but our palm goes to the Marion lady, ultra-conservative when it comes to any form of gambling, who hied herself off with friends to a swank resort and, for the first time in her life, had the thrill of putting her money on the nose of a horse that came in ahead of the field. And is her family tickled? They're all amused and they kid her about her $4 bet as much as if she'd put a thousand dollars on the nag. They can't get over "Mother" doing anything so daring.
Breakfast Spoilers
Why do people, particularly women with harsh, shrill voices, insist on breaking the peace of the morning breakfast table with an endless prattle about nothing? That's what crossed the minds of a crowd of "regulars" at an uptown restaurant the other morning when a trio of tourists had left. One of the women had a voice that would have carried across the Sahara and of that grating, penetrating shrillness that jabs like a knife. All through the meal she rattled on, of this and that of no consequence, and she was up from the table a half-dozen times to select penny postcards of scenes around the town. It was almost an audible sigh of relief that swept the room when the party left.
Just Bad Pennies
Another big idea went floopy the other day when a banker informed an inquisitive customer that those mildewey-looking pennies that are flooding Marion just now aren't green with age or from having been idle too long in a musty vault—they "got that way" from being used in those penny peanut vending machines. The reaction of the salt and oil of the peanuts does things to the coppers.
Silenced
Her male companion didn't have a thing to say when the young lady at his side remarked "Isn't that just like a man?" at the dramatic scene in "The Good Earth," when Wang took the two pearls from his faithful first wife to give to his younger enamorata.

SYNOPSIS: Wealthy, flashy prescott Fanning kidnaps Janet, a Baltimore girl, aboard his yacht. She sends word to Neill, a young federal agent who loves her. Rushing to Absalom's Harbor he boards the yacht and finds, in a locked cabin, Fanning shot dead and Janet in a faint, a gun beside her. Neill runs her to the disused Harris kept up the river and hides her in the boat suite. Back at the village hotel, he resumes his fisherman role to watch developments. The village is hysterically excited over the murder. Button Billings, justice of the peace, is called.

CHAPTER 15

Blood On Your Knee

A TALL, gaunt old man in decent Sunday blacks came down the companionway behind Neill and pushed through with an air of authority. He had a thin gray beard that waved with every movement and an expression of grim piety. He looked like a picture out of an old book. This was Mr. Button Billings, justice of the peace, Neill breathed a little easier. No special danger here.

As a matter of fact, as soon as Mr. Billings entered the after cabin a conflict of authority arose. "What's this?" What's this?" he wanted to know. "Why didn't you wait for me?"

Virgil looked at him with a mixture of respect and exasperation. He tossed his badly chewed cigar through the porthole and stuck a fresh one in his mouth. "We are just looking into the evidence, Mr Billings."

"That is my job."

Virgil let him have his way. Mr. Billings stood in the middle of the cabin stroking his shaven upper lip, looking down at the body, looking all around. He frowned at the stricken steward on the sofa.

"Did he do it?" he asked Virgil.

The man jumped up with a cry. "No, sir! No! It was me who found him! He was stiff and cold then. He . . ."

Mr. Billings silenced him with a wave of the hand. "All in good time. We'll sit on him first."

"That's not the way to do it," Virgil burst out. "They collect the evidence first, and then hold the inquest."

"It's nothing to me what's done in other places," said Mr. Billings. "We have our own ways. Always when a body is found we sit on it immediately."

"We don't know who he is yet," said Virgil. "He called himself Barrett, but there's no proof of it."

"Well, if we don't know who he is, then he's an unknown person," said Mr. Billings crushingly.

"They'll call us hicks in the paper," muttered Virgil.

The old man ignored the remark. "This place is too small to hold it here," he said. "We'll carry him ashore."

"The evidence is here."

"What evidence?"

"The gun; the bullet that was shot out of it; the smashed door."

"I will swear in a jury from among those present, and they can view the evidence."

"We ought to take steps to catch the murderer first."

Mr Billings flattened him with a gesture. "We will proceed in due order, Virgil."

A jury was duly sworn in—Mr. Billings had a testament in his tail pocket—and with difficulty steered around the little cabin. Twelve solemn-faced fishermen and clerks, they took their responsibilities seriously. Mr. Billings then requested them to carry the body up on deck and to lay it in one of the skiffs alongside.

The Jury's Verdict

Virgil, desperately rolling the cigar between his teeth, made another plea for delay. "Anyhow wait till Mark Bonniger comes."

Mr Billings drew himself up. "What's Mark Bonniger got to do with it?"

"I have requested him to take charge of the case."

"Mark Bonniger is not an officer!"

"He's a student and a traveler," said Virgil. "He knows how these things are done."

"You have gone beyond yourself in this matter, Virgil," said Mr Billings severely. "We all respect you as a citizen, but you hold no office. I am the representative of the law in this district."

Virgil flung up his hands. The cigar tossed like a ship at sea.

Neill was well pleased to see the body carried ashore. The officious Mr. Button Billings was doing all he could to make the finding of the killer more difficult.

A freight shed on Longcope's wharf was designated as the place to hold an inquest. The solemn jury and the witnesses disappeared inside and closed the door. While he waited, Neill circulated unobtrusively among the crowd, watching and listening for anything that might threaten danger. He was startled when he accidentally caught sight of his own strained face in the mirror of a slot machine.

An hour later the verdict was announced. "Man unknown shot to death by person or persons unknown." Neill could scarcely believe his ears. Was it possible they were going to drop the 'whole thing?' No such luck. When he saw Virgil Longcope's shrewd eyes and active cigar he knew it wasn't going to be dropped.

Virgil was the only source of information as to what was really happening. Neill was unable to get hold of him again, but the nature of his activities leaked out of the little office from time to time. Mark Bonniger, it appeared, was away from home, and they were telephoning all over for him. Meanwhile Virgil had got the governor himself on the phone, and had arranged that as soon as Bonniger was found he should be sworn in as a special officer. Thus he got ahead of Mr. Button Billings.

Virgil had a keen sense of the value of publicity. He telephoned the news to the Washington and Baltimore newspapers and it was said that the reporters were racing down in a fleet of cars.

"I'm going to have this matter handled right!" Virgil was heard to shout. "I'm gonna put Absalom's on the map!" Neill's breast tightened, hearing this. He dreaded the reporters just now.

This Man Bonniger

Neill felt an anxious curiosity concerning this Bonniger whose name was on everybody's lips. His fate and Janet's depended on the kind of man he proved to be. By keeping his ears open and asking an occasional question, he built up a mental picture of Bonniger.

A quiet man. A widower in his middle forties, and the last representative of a family that had been prominent in the county since it was first settled. The Bonnigers were not the sort of people that money stuck to, and the family estate had declined since the Civil war, but Mark still had good tobacco and corn land and blooded riding horses. He lived alone in his old house, "Lordship's Grace," 20 miles up river.

Mark Bonniger's neighbors regarded him with a mixture of familiarity and awe. They felt that he belonged to them though they rarely saw him. He was a great traveler and would be away for months at a time without anybody knowing of it until he got back. He never went around, but he had good friends. Like Virgil. Virgil though the world of him. Virgil had been trying for years to get him into public life, like all the Bonnigers before him.

Chiefly, however, the men spoke of Bonniger's insight into character.

"You can't fool Mark Bonniger! He will let you think you are fooling him, but he is fooling you . . . Virgil Longcope, he made no mistake when he picked Mark Bonniger to solve this case. . . . Mark Bonniger can see further into a stone wall than most men." And so on. And so on.

All this was disquieting. Neill saw that in remaining on the spot he had cast himself in a difficult role. His thoughts turned to Janet. He wished that he had her hidden further away. Too dangerous to try to move her now. He longed to be with her.

Later he learned that Mark Bonniger had been found and was being rushed to Annapolis so that the governor could swear him in.

As he was circulating in the hotel lobby picking up a word here and there—it was only idle gossip to the crowd, but to Neill it meant everything—he happened to glance at the letter rack behind the desk and was surprised to see a letter in his box. Upon his asking for it a plain white envelope was handed him. Nothing but the room number was written on it. Inside he found a half sheet of note-paper with a note pencilled in a clerkly hand:

You been going round all morning with blood on your knee. You better wash it 'ent before the investigator comes.

It was like an unexpected icy shower. Taking care to keep his face, Neill went quietly up the stairs. In his room he stared at his reflection in the mirror. It was true! There was a brownish-red stain on his left knee as big as a quarter.

He must have got it when he had knelt beside Fanning's body in the cabin of the yacht. The breeches were an old, soiled pair, and one spot more had escaped his notice. The thought of his carelessness brought the sweat out on him. A trained sleuth, it seemed, could be as blind a fool as any crook when it came to covering his own tracks.

He slipped out of his breeches in order to wash them. An ugly anxiety made him set his jaw. Who had written this note? It brought back to mind the unexplained happenings of the night before. Who was the sharp-eyed individual watching his every move? Who was there in Absalom's who knew so much about him? And how much more did he know?

Mark Bonniger takes charge of the investigation, tomorrow.

D. OF A. HAS DANCE, CARD PARTY AT HALL

One hundred members of Paramount Council No. 37, Daughters of America, and their families, attended a dance and card party last night in Junior Order hall. The party was given by Harmony circle of past councilors in honor of mothers and daughters of the council. Harold Gast's orchestra, a newly organized Marion dance unit, played for round and square dancing. Forest Gustin of Marion called square dance forms. Refreshments were served.

PLEASANT TOWNSHIP SCHOOL PLANS SET

Arrangements Made for Opening on Sept. 7.

Plans for Pleasant township school opening Tuesday, Sept. 7, were announced today. School will be dismissed at 2:30 after which the teachers will meet for organization purposes.

All text-books will be furnished by the board of education. Work books and other school supplies may be purchased at the school. New textbooks have been adopted in some of the courses.

Students wishing to enroll before opening day may come to the building Thursday, Friday and Saturday mornings from 9 to 12.

A commercial course will be offered this year under the direction of Don Badertscher, a graduate of Bowling Green State university. Mr. Badertscher's home is in Lorain, O. The home economics department will be enlarged with new subjects offered. Miss Margaret Uncapher of Green Camp will be the instructor. She has been teaching in the Hamilton, O., schools the last five years.

A portable gasoline torch has been designed to burn weeds along railroad tracks, thaw switches or start back fires in fighting forest fires.

Jill Tells Queen Olga That Noel Never Loved Olina

AS QUEEN OLGA put her surprising question concerning Philip Veritzen, I felt as if I were unexpectedly caught in the eddy of a stream which might very well carry me beyond my depth.

It was one thing to give the deposed queen a carefully edited account of that summer when her daughter, Princess Olina and Prince Georges of Trees, had spent the summer incognito at The Larches, near the farmhouse, forming half of what Harry Underwood called "our international romantic quartet."

It was something else altogether to tell her the truth. I felt that since Mary was my husband's niece, I could no say to Olga's mother that her daughter had used every device possible to entangle Noel into a proposal of marriage, and that, though Noel's father had used all his parental authority and influence toward the same end, the boy had not yielded until Mary, jealous and resentful, and also a bit dazzled at the prospect of some time being queen of Trees—had been swept away by Georges ardent wooing and entered into a formal betrothal with him.

Asks Lillian's Help

No. I simply could not answer those questions truthfully, and I basely threw the burden of reply on Lillian. Not daring a glance in her direction I spoke quickly, almost feverishly.

"Mrs. Underwood can answer your questions far better than I can," I told her. "You see, Mary is my husband's niece, and as dear to me as she is to him. I do not feel that I can give you an unbiased account of that summer's doings as can Lillian, who was not drawn personally into the affair as I was."

"My role was simply that of a bon-soeul attendant," Lillian said, and something in her voice told me that she not only comprehended my dilemma but would help me to solve it.

"Then you must have had a marvelous and uninterrupted view of the performance," Queen Olga said whimsically.

"I did," Lillian retorted, "but I am wondering whether you are going to relish my account of it."

Queen Olga lifted her head with a touch of her former regal air.

Knows Her Daughter.

"I am sure there was nothing really discreditable," she said, and I echoed Lillian's hasty and emphatic, "No, no, no."

"Then, there is nothing you need to keep from me," she said dropping her hauteur precipitately. "Remember, I know my daughter and her little ways, the fault, of course, of her upbringing with its peculiar ideas of what one of royal birth may or may not do."

She smiled indulgently, as if Olina were before her, offering excuses in person.

"In our country," she went on, "a person of lesser rank can not pay court to a member of the royal family. If a royal princess wishes to contract an alliance below her rank she must make the advances. Knowing my daughter's youth, her impetuous nature and her romanticism, I am sure that if she set her vagrant fancy upon Noel, he didn't have much chance of eluding her, especially as I suspect his father must have exerted the pressure of his authority to further the betrothal."

How Did She Know?

Why was she so certain of Philip Veritzen's part in the affair? I wondered for I could not imagine either Georges or Noel admitting that the famous producer's coercion of his son was a factor in the romance of the "international quartet."

But Lillian was answering Olga's request, and I promptly put aside my bewilderment to listen.

"You have called the turn on every count, my dear Olga," she said. "And that makes it easier for me to tell you the truth. Noel was never in love with Olina."

TWINS ON MIDLAM FARM DOING WELL

Twin Guernsey heifer calves celebrated their first week's birthday anniversaries Monday at the J. E. Midlam farm south of Martel on the Emahiser road.

The calves are the first twins born to livestock owned by Mr. Midlam in the many years he has been farming. Each is the sire of a normal calf and both are healthy and frisky.

Apparently their mother, who with stood the ordeal of twins in fine condition, has instructed her offspring in the bovine Emily Post because Mr. Midlam said, it took only one day to teach them to drink milk from a pail. Both he and his wife were a trifle dismayed at the thought of teaching this but to two calves simultaneously, but the twins caught on in short order.

METHODIST GROUP MEETS IN CALEDONIA

Sunday School Group Entertained by Mrs. H. F. Highly.

Special to the Star

CALEDONIA, Sept. 1—Mrs. H. F. Highly and Mrs T. V. Warner entertained the Adelphae Kartos class of Memorial M. E. Sunday school Monday night at the home of Mrs. Highly for their first meeting of the fall season. The meeting was conducted by Mrs. Frank Hammond and was opened by singing "Brighten the Corner Where You Are." Mrs Hammond read the third chapter of Mathew which was followed with the Lord's Prayer in unison and singing "Carry Your Cross With a Smile."

Roll call was responded to by 15 members. Mrs. B. H. Thomas of Findlay, Mrs. Frank Bayers, Mrs. Clarence Lyon, Mrs. Wallace Lyon and Mrs. E. M. Dailey were guests. Mrs. G. A. Hickson, Mrs. H. F. Highly and Mrs. H. N. Caddis were appointed to decide on the lesson study for the coming year. It was voted to pay $5 for church expenses.

A motion was made for each member to earn a dollar by Christmas to replenish the treasury. Mrs. W. R. Simpson won the mystery box.

The president then turned the meeting over to Mrs W. R. Simpson and Mrs. Floyd Alexander, program committee who conducted contests won by Mrs. G. A. Hickson, Miss Orral Garber, Mrs. M. V. Douce and Miss Laura Garber. Refreshments were served. The next meeting will be held Oct. 4 at the home of Mrs. J. L. Dice with Mrs Frank Elders associate hostess.

WEDNESDAY, . . . SEPTEMBER 1, 1937

Suspense Is Everything.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S mother, who says she's sure her son doesn't want a third term, has laid no ghosts. The question isn't whether Mr. Roosevelt wants a third term, but whether he might accept nomination for a third term.

No one knows. Mr. Roosevelt doesn't know. Mr. Farley doesn't, either. Mr. Roosevelt's mother hasn't the slightest idea. That's what creates suspense, and in this particular situation suspense is everything.

A president exercises authority in his party because he is a political factor to be reckoned with. The instant he ceases to occupy that role he is washed up. Thereafter he can give only advice, not orders.

Unless made unavailable by illness or some other extraordinary circumstance, every second term president is the beneficiary of this kind of suspense. That is Mr. Roosevelt's position today. Nothing he can say, nothing anyone else can say for him or against it will destroy the possibility that in 1940 he may be available for a third term.

As long as that situation continues, Mr. Roosevelt will be a political factor to be reckoned with, which explains why there's so much speculation and controversy about his future in the first place.

Envy

A $1 ASSESSMENT will be collected from each of 400,000 members of United Automobile Workers to finance an organization campaign among Ford Motor Co. employes.

That's a whale of a lot of money, but unless U. A. W. leaders have guessed wrong they will be able to collect it with a minimum of effort—far more easily, at any rate, than it was earned.

Think what it would mean to a political party to be able to collect half a million dollars by assessment. Party leaders could quit stroking "fat cats" and coaxing local bosses for contributions. They wouldn't need to sell souvenir books or hold victory dinners.

Their job would be a snap. They could spend freely without wondering where the next hundred thousand was coming from. When the time came, they merely would broadcast: "Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of the party—or else" and in would roll the dollars.

These, it's easy to imagine, are the thoughts which have been flitting through the minds of politicians since the latest U. A. W. move. In the phrase of the moment, the politicians must concede that Homer Martin and his vice presidents "have got something there." Even John Lewis with his United Mine Workers can show nothing better.

Below Normal.

IS it possible the summer silly season is going out of style?

Dog days used to bring out the tree sitters, chair rockers, fake sea serpents, wild men and peanut rollers by the hundreds.

It used to be a dull August that didn't raise a galloping rash of darned foolishness from coast to coast. There wasn't anything too silly to rouse up some kind of a following, even if it was only a spider trying to weave a web on the hands of an 8-day clock.

This summer, aside from a legless man swimming from Albany to New York, the silly season is far below normal. No one is rocking to fame and a vaudeville contract in an armchair, and the tree sitters must all be sitting somewhere else, without benefit of admiration.

How can this be explained? Well, they say America has become a land of spectators. Perhaps the impulse to be silly is being satisfied by the really excellent performances of politicians these hectic days.

Matanuska Experiment.

THE government's Matanuska experiment is being conducted for several purposes. Besides transplanting farm families for their own good, the government is interested in planting the seeds of a large American population in Alaska.

These are among the conclusions reached by Ernie Pyle, a newspaperman, who went to the Matanuska colony to see with his own eyes what was being done. In many ways, the Matanuska project is as interesting as the first colonies established in the United States.

There are resemblances. One of the problems of the American colonists was the shiftless member unable to make his own way. Various expedients were employed to stimulate him to greater activity—to bring him up to average lest he pull down the others to his own level.

But in the Matanuska colony, Pyle reports "the colonists lean on the government. The farmer's notorious independence is gone. . . this has developed in them what you might call a 'baby psychology.'"

The possibility suggests itself that the experiment may prove something in this connection which won't jibe with the new deal's faith in the helping hand policy.

Solution of World's Problems Awaits Ending of Present Era of Hate and Class Strife.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Sept 1.—Of all the comments that come in every now and then from people in all walks of life is one asking the simple, but patriotic, question. When will there be an end to the present era of hate?

The belief that class is being arrayed against class by members of the present administration, beginning with President Roosevelt and continuing to lesser officials and to allied groups is widespread. The defense usually offered is that the provocation—the demand for social justice and a better deal for the underprivileged—justifies the tactics used.

The President of the United States, however, who is often looked upon by the people as a moral leader, or spokesman, at least, of national morality, hardly ever makes a speech nowadays that he does not inject into it some note of class antagonism, some challenge of militancy to those he calls "a powerful minority."

As for the people who disagree with the President, many unfortunately bear toward Mr. Roosevelt a burning hatred. They do not concede to him benevolence of purpose, but constantly accuse him of malevolence. The President, in one of his speeches in 1936, took cognizance of this and said bluntly, "I welcome their hatred."

How different is the spirit of statesmanship in England! There came to my office today a communication which one doubts would ever be penned by a group of American high officials. It was signed by the Marquis of Salisbury, one of England's most respected elder statesmen, by Dr. J. W. Mackail, one of the greatest classical scholars of England, by Ernest Brown, minister of labor in the present cabinet, and by Lord Davidson, who was Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin's closest adviser. It was published in the "London Times" and reads in part as follows:

"The disunity of aim and conflict of interest that now disturb all human life and relationships, throughout the world, whether social, national or international, is surely today the greatest menace to modern civilization.

"On one point all thoughtful people must be united. No effective, unifying, or harmonizing principle has yet been discovered in any system of social or political philosophy, or method of political organization, or science of national or international statecraft. Quite plainly human ingenuity and human intelligence have failed to find a remedy.

"It cannot be God's plan or purpose that no remedy should be found. He surely has one. The most urgent duty of every Christian is to try, under God's guidance, to find the remedy and then apply it with faith and unremitting intensity of purpose.

"We have been deeply impressed with signs around us of the revival of conviction in this sense. We believe that many a humble Christian is striving by prayer and effort to help forward God's purpose and we thankfully recognize that men are banding themselves together to seek and to find the road to it. The Oxford group is a notable example. This worldwide movement stands out as a challenge to the churches today to be up and doing.

"The dominating motive which animates these efforts, whether in the group or elsewhere, is a pledge of loyalty to apply under God's guidance the spirit and principles of Christ to individual conduct and to every department of social, national and supernational life.

"These workers are striving . . . to drive home as a fundamental principle that every one in every nation is in Christian duty bound, in all possible and practicable ways, to apply and insistently work for the general application of the principles of Christ not merely to his own problems but most especially to those of his community and nation, and of the nations of the world.

"We write this letter to urge the crying need of mankind that this fundamental principle should be emphasized and insistently applied broadcast throughout this and other countries. What nations imperatively require is a development of the sense of personal responsibility to bring men and women and all administrations and governments to a spirit of loyalty to God. This alone can unite a chaotic world."

Only this week there has been in session at Williamstown, Mass., a meeting held under the auspices of the National Conference of Christians and Jews. The subject has been "Public Opinion," and, judging from a reading of the speeches, they have contained some of the same sharp cleavages which were conveyed in President Roosevelt's message opening the conference. In 1935, the President sent to the National Conference of Christians and Jews a splendid message declaring that there was no social or political or economic problem which would not yield a solution if approached in the true spirit of religion. But, unfortunately, as the spirit of hate is more and more engendered, as lack of impartiality in enforcing the laws of the land stirs up the passions of the vigilante movement and sows the seeds of revolt, there is not much progress made toward a revival of the unifying spirit of religion. Some day that spirit, however, must conquer the spirit of hate and class warfare and from no position of vantage can words of tolerance and restraint be uttered more effectively to heal the wounds of class discension than from the high office of President and from the government generally. The voice of the British statesmen who have the vision to write of the need for divine guidance is matched here by men and women in all walks of life who feel the same urge to spread the doctrine of human cooperation and mutual help but, in America, as in England, leadership comes from those in authority, and it is to them the populace turns hopefully now, as always, for initiative and example.

Dorothy Thompson Asks Few Questions and Gives the Answers in Letter to Nazi Official.

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

NEW YORK, N. Y., Sept. 1—Dear Sir:

We see from your speech in Stuttgart on Sunday that the government of which you are foreign minister intends to organize Nazi groups in this country, made up of German Americans and professional agitators sent from the Fatherland, and getting their orders from Germany. You warn us that Germany will not tolerate that foreign governments should discriminate against such German groups within their boundaries.

In other words you warn us that you intend to spread your propaganda on our soil, and that our government dare not interfere. Thank you for making your purposes so plain. A few of us have always held that this was your intention. You are for an open conspiracy, openly arrived at. Now we can understand each other.

Dorothy Thompson

Another of your spokesmen at Stuttgart, Ernest Bohler, 'leader' of the Nazi foreign organization, helped to clarify things for us. He said, "Whoever lives abroad as a German business man, is working not only for himself but primarily in the service of the German Fatherland."

We wonder if you a trained diplomat, of long service, have forgotten what you once must have known, that the admission of any foreigner to this country is not a matter of right, upon which the foreigner can insist, but of comity and hospitality. It is assumed that a guest in one's house will not spit on the floor, break the furniture, or insult other guests. Yet you are instructing German guests in our house to mock our institutions, to pervert them wherever possible, to spread hostility against organized workers, and finally to divide our own house against itself. The American conception of civil liberties, our protection of free speech, alone makes the toleration of such groups possible. You know perfectly well that you would not tolerate any activities promoted by a foreign government on your own soil. On what ground, therefore, do you appeal to us for toleration? On the ground of reciprocity?

Do you remember, Mr. Minister, that in 1933, when we extended formal recognition to Soviet Russia, we did so only on condition that Russia would conduct no propaganda activities here. And when it appeared from the Meeting of the Comintern in August, 1935, that it did intend to exert an influence on citizens of this country, the United States protested to the point of threatening to break off diplomatic relations.

On the same day that your speech was reported, 25,000 of your followers held a rally on Long Island. There they heard the Nazi government of Germany praised. They were allegedly American citizens of German extraction, but they uttered no word of praise for American institutions. They announced that they were mobilized to fight the CIO, and save us from bolshevism.

We are pretty good at this saving business ourselves. Once, in 1848, we saved thousands of your most valuable citizens from extermination, by opening our doors to them. We have not yet observed that any one is fleeing to your country for refuge. Since 1933 we have given haven to some of your most distinguished people. And whether they came to this country as refugees from political oppression, or for other reasons, Germans have helped to settle this country, and have been among its most desirable citizens. No one forgets the place of his birth, even if he was driven from it. But as citizens of this state, they have given unquestioned allegiance to it. And in 1917, when we were, unhapply, at war with your country, thousands of men of German blood, shed it for the United States of America. But in the future we are to presume no such loyalty. For you are saying, in effect, that one drop of German blood cannot be washed out by a

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Thursday, Sept. 1, 1927.

Rev. Richard Loew and family of Strausburg were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Keller of North Main street and other friends here. Rev. Loew was a former pastor of the Salem Evangelical church.

Mrs. Gertrude King of the Cowan apartments and son Donald of Cleveland, Mrs. George B. Scofield of Bellefontaine avenue and George Wright and daughter Nancy of South Vine street, returned from a three weeks' motor trip to Montreal, Canada, the Green Mountains, Boston, and other points in the east.

Mrs. Jane E. Kennedy, 80, mother of O. E. Kennedy, president of the Marion County bank, died at her home on West Church street.

Tax settlement figures at the auditor's office showed that the total tax distribution in Marion county for the fiscal year 1926 amounted to $2,081,197.

Alfred Horn of St. James street left for a 10 days' visit to New York City.

Miss Janet Trott was hostess at a bridge party at her home on Forest street.

Miss Louise Neal and Miss Ruthedа Dannenberg gave a bridge and shower at the Neal home on East Church street complimenting Miss Mildred Burnside, who was to be the bride of C. Warren Klinefelter soon.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Saturday, Sept. 1, 1917.

A new and powerful offensive movement north of the Aisne river had brought important gains to the French. Three strong German counter-attacks were delivered but the French maintained all their gains. Savage fighting was reported from the Italian, eastern and Macedonian fronts. General John J. Pershing, commander-in-chief of the American fighting forces in France, left for their new headquarters which were centrally located and would control the entire line of American communication.

Sons were born to Mr. and Mrs. Milton Dye of Creston avenue, Mr. and Mrs. James West of Polk street and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Smith of Pearl street.

It was announced that Millard Baldwin, who had recently enlisted in the reserve quartermasters' corps as a motor truck driver, would leave Monday for Fort Crook, Neb., where he was to drive one of the large motor trucks or an officer's car.

Miss Dorothy Marion Templeton of Hornell, N. Y., formerly of Marion, and Kenneth R. Horn of Cleveland were united in marriage at the First Presbyterian church by Rev. L. L. Strock.

The Baldwin Locomotive works at Philadelphia was turning out an average of nine locomotives a day, most of them for war service. To accomplish this, which set a new record in locomotive manufacture, 25,000 men were employed.

Ohio's New Trees

Ohio ranked third among the states in the planting of trees in 1936, and this year it will plant a million more than last year, according to F. W. Dean, extension forester of Ohio State university.

The plantings for this year will total 7,550,000, Dean predicts. One reason for the increase is the more favorable weather which 1937 brought. Frequent rains have kept the seedlings growing, in marked contrast to the high tree mortality induced by the 1936 drouth, Dean said.

Two-Man Battle Far Behind Lines May Decide Outcome of Japanese-Chinese War.

By The Associated Press Feature Service.

A grim two-man battle hundreds of miles behind the battle lines may determine the fate of the Japanese-Chinese war.

China's Kung

The weapons? Money and more money.

The combatants? H. H. Kung of China and Okinobu Kaya of Japan. You may never have heard of them. Here's an introduction:

H. H. KUNG—American educated, China's No. 2 man prefers this English rendering of name to the Chinese, K'ung Hsiang-hsi. Runs government when Dictator Chiang Kai-shek's away—as last winter when a disgruntled war lord kidnaped the generalissimo. Kung had a big hand in getting him returned safely.

Gets his power mainly because he's brother-in-law of Chiang. He and Chiang married two of the famous Soong sisters, thus becoming members of the "Soong dynasty," which has played an important part in building up the present government.

Japan's Kaya

Fat and 56, he wears a mustache, has a ready smile. Born in T'aiku, Shansi province of North China, Japan is now trying to annex. Has degrees from Oberlin and Yale. Been holding down government jobs since 1932. Double-barreled title now is minister of finance and vice premier. Recently wound up successful world "shopping tour" for arms and money. Arranged for at least three European loans, plus a $50,000,000 commercial credit with the Skoda armament works in Czechoslovakia.

OKINOBU KAYA—Usually smiling in pictures because thinks it a joke to be photographed. Was vice minister of finance until cabinet change in June. Got No. 1 place in finance department after another Japanese refused it.

Colorless, unknown to the world until recently, has been interested in politics ever since he majored in that subject at Tokyo Imperial university (class of '17).

Only 48, he bears one of the heaviest burdens ever carried by finance minister in Japan. His country's finances are said to be strong enough for only a three months' war. Kaya already has sweated through many long sessions with his staff discussing means of financing the campaign. So far the government has appropriated approximately $121,500,000, and has taken steps to tighten its control over private wealth in the interests of wartime economic structure.

Come Hither

THERE'S another big business now—the tourist and vacation industry. To prove how big it has grown, the Council of State Governments reports that its advertising appropriation for 1937 so far is $2,000,000, tidy sum in even the biggest business.

Twenty-eight states are going after tourists with advertising, the council says. Pennsylvania has $500,000 to spend over a period of two years.

Other sums range from $4,000 in Kentucky, to be spent solely for printing by the state department of conservation, to $250,000 in Washington.

Nine states joined the promotional parade this year, advertising their vacation and tourist charms to lure some of the hundreds of millions spent annually for these purposes by an increasingly mobile population. Among these new states are Colorado ($150,000), Iowa ($5,000), Michigan ($300,000), Oklahoma ($100,000), Nebraska ($2,500), New Jersey ($150,000), Arkansas ($12,000).

As the competition for tourists grows among the states, two of them known as vacation and "health havens," California and Florida, spend no public funds to publicize their attractions.

However, civic and community groups in these states spend large sums for the purpose. For instance, in 1936, two civic organizations of California spent $620,000 on national advertising campaigns, with tourist and vacationists returns estimated at $150,000,000 in that year.

Four things come not back: The spoken word; the sped arrow; time past; the neglected opportunity.—Omar Ibn.

CITY RETIRES BONDS FALLING DUE TODAY

Prompt Payment for First Time in 7 Years, Fund Official Says.

For the first time in seven years Marion city is paying both principle and interest on the date due, Paul Bachman, secretary of the sinking fund, said today. Bonds are due today, Sept. 1. In addition to those due today the city is also paying a few others which do not come due until Oct. and Nov. 1, making a total of $97,000 paid today, he said.

The reason for the prompt payment this time lies in the fact that tax collections both the December collection earlier this year and the June collection now closing, have amounted in far greater amounts than in the past few years, officials said.

The sinking fund trustees obtained an advance draw from County Auditor Harry V. Mounts of $40,000 which with $90,000 on hand made complete payment possible, Mr. Bachman said.

The county and the city schools, which usually pay on time, also paid today, Mr. Bachman said.

Public bonds are for the most part due on March 1 and Sept. 1, those dates having been fixed to coincide with the former closing dates of tax collections which once ended in February and July. They now end in March or April and in September. The depression which dashed tax collections also caused delay in payments of bonds on time by the city officials said.

MORROW CO. SHEEP CLAIMS REACH $1,000

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD, Sept. 1—Thirty claims for sheep killed by dogs will be presented for the approval of the Morrow county commissioners next Monday. The claims total over $1,000.

Those whose claims are approved will not be paid immediately because of the depleted condition of the animal claims fund of the county. A drive by Francis W. Kelly, county dog warden, has resulted in the collection of over $200 from the sale of licenses and in penalties.

Fostoria Sets Down Marion, 5-2; Tiffin Here Tod

CELLAR-DWELLING RED BIRDS UPSET 2ND PLACE LOCALS

Geyganites Bow to Team Third Time in Row as Season Nears End.

Marion's pennant hopes in the Ohio State league received another jolt yesterday when the last place Fostoria Red Birds made use of some early game scoring and won 5-2, in a game played at Fostoria.

The defeat was the third straight suffered at the hands of the Fostoria and marked Marion's final appearance on the Red Bird diamond

Gillis, Fostoria centerfielder, lost no time in getting at pitcher Morris and clubbed out a triple his first time up in the first inning. Mudron bunted, scoring Gillis and when the play was made at home, Mudron was safe at first. Hildebrand then single to center, Mudron going to third The Geyganites pulled themselves out of a tight hole when Kruse hit into a double play, Stiewe to Geygan to Swed, Mudron scoring. Navlocki struck out.

Score in Second

With two runs safely tucked away, the Red Birds again went to town in the second stanza. Petrikovic walked and went to third when Mulvihill's throw to second to catch him stealing was bad Kreps struck out, but Zachritz, the next man up, walked Jenkins then singled to center scoring Petrikovic and sending Zachritz to third. Gillis struck out.

On the next play Stiewe muffed Mudron's roller Zachritz scoring. Hildebrand struck out to end the inning Three hits, good for one run, in the fifth completed the Red Bird scoring Marion's runs came in the third and sixth innings. In the third Morris grounded out, Stiewe singled over third. At this point, the veteran Jenkins issued passes to Eader and Brich, filling the bases. Stiewe scored when Swed grounded out to first Manager Chappie Geygan flied to left to retire the side.

Again in the sixth, a triple by Harris followed by a walk to Mulvihill, and a single by Morris added another run. The game was called at the end of the seventh, because of darkness.

Marion will entertain the Tiffin Mud Hens here today at 8 p. m. The tilt is one postponed since early season. Manager Geygau will lead his men to Tiffin Thursday to end the season's hostilities with that particular club.

Mansfield's Red Sox were defeated yesterday by Fremont, 5-3, and the Findlay Browns won over the Tiffin Mud Hens, 5-1 in six innings. The Marion-Tiffin game today is the only one scheduled.

PROS, COLLEGE STARS TO CLASH TONIGHT

Crowd of 85,000 Expected for Annual Grid Spectacle at Soldier Field.

By the Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 1—Green Bay's Packers, current last word in professional football accomplishment, will take their turn on the spot against selected college talent tonight before 85,000 fans at Soldier field in the fourth annual All Star gridiron spectacle

The Packers, like the Chicago Bears and Detroit Lions, their predecessors in football's biggest one night stand, will defend the prestige of professional football against the collegiate brand. The All Stars, 65 huskies selected by more than 5,000,000 fans as the brightest stars of the 1936 college season, will be defending only their individual reputations, leaving most of the pressure on the professionals.

Charles E (Gus) Dorais of the University of Detroit, selected by the fans to head the All Star coaching staff, has drilled his squad for 17 days, with most of the offensive sessions devoted to an aerial game built around "Slinging" Sam" Baugh, Texas Christian's great sharpshooter. He had a host of other flingers at his disposal, notably Ray Bulvid of Marquette, Vernon Huffman of Indiana, and big Sam Francis of Nebraska.

Dorais will start the first eleven men named by the fans—a lineup which did not include Baugh—but after the opening kickoff will be at liberty to send in any one on the squad, and Baugh is expected to make his appearance without much delay. The All Star team which will be out there at the kickoff includes four members of the 1936 all America, Gaynell Tinsley of Louisiana State end; Ed Widseth, Minnesota tackle, Max Starcevich of Washington, guard Averell Daniell of Pittsburgh, the other tackle, and Francis.

The Packers, who mowed through their professional opposition last year with a combination of slam-bang running offense and a great passing game, will send their best on the field at the start.

More than 40 of the collegians already are under contract to professional clubs.

In case of rain, the game will be postponed until tomorrow night

SHOVEL WINS LITTLE WORLD SERIES T

SCORES 9 TO 3 WIN FROM ST. MARY NINE; NEXT GAME THURSDAY

Snyder and Everly Hold Irish Squad to Four Hits; Diggers Get 10.

Marion Steam Shovel, champions of the Industrial league, defeated St. Mary, champions of the No. 2 loop, 9-3, in the first game of the "Little World Series," played last night at 6:15 at Lincoln park.

Snyder and Everly, Shovel hurlers, allowed the Irish team only four hits, while they were garnering 10 off the slants of Gene Gunder, St. Mary hurler. The Sunday school league champs added to their own discomfort by committing six errors.

Five hits were enough to bring in eight runs in the first two innings. Hits by Pohler, Edgington and Corrigan, a walk and an error scored three runs in the first inning In the second, three errors, a single by Roseberry and a home run by Edgington pushed across five more runs to put the game on ice. The Diggers added another run in the fourth to complete the scoring

St. Mary scored their runs in the fifth inning, when Thome cracked out a double, Myers drew a walk, which was followed by a single by first-sacker Bob Kelly.

By its victory, the Shovel team earned the right to meet Wesley, last year's city champions and winners of the No. 1 league race this season. The game will be played at Lincoln park Thursday night at 6:15.

RUDY YORK NEW HOME RUN WIZARD

By hitting his twenty-ninth and thirtieth home runs of the season yesterday, leading the Detroit Tigers to a 12 to 3 victory over Washington, Rookie Rudy York, shown at left above, topped one of Babe Ruth's records and did more to justify Manager Mickey Cochrane's (right) predictions that York will become the greatest home run slugger in the major leagues Ruth hit 17 smashes in a single month in September of 1927. York's two homers yesterday were his seventeenth and eighteenth in August. In addition York got two singles yesterday and drove in seven Tiger runs. The 24-year-old former Texas leaguer who has played only two-thirds as many games as Joe DiMaggio this season has clouted homers at a far faster rate than the Yankee slugger.

Chicago Takes National Loop Lead As Giants Lose To Cards

BY BILL BONI
Associated Press Writer

Bill Terry long since has discovered that, when his ball club is in the thick of the pennant scramble it can look for little or no assistance from its neighbors on the farm side of the Brooklyn bridge

Three years ago Terry had the bitterest proof of that credo. In the last few games of the season, with the Giants and Cardinals in a "he's up-he's down" scrap for the bunting, the Dodgers invaded the Polo grounds and won the undying gratitude of their constituents by easing the Giants out and the Gas-Housers in.

His own outfit dropped an 8-1 verdict to the 16-hitting Cardinals yesterday. But even that wouldn't have wiped out their two-point first place margin if the Dodgers had hog-tied the Cubs.

The Dodgers however lost, 4-2, with the result that both series were resumed today with the standings revised thus:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Chicago	73	47	608
New York	71	47	602

Brooklyn, had quite an afternoon Besides being thrown for a loss by Tex Carleton's eight-hit pitching, they lost Woody English, at least temporarily, with a sprained ankle and first baseman Buddy Hassett, one of the team's few consistent hitters, on a new play called "the manager's bounce"

As put on by Burleigh Grimes, it consists of storming onto the field when one of your players commits an error and yanking him right out of the game.

While the Cubs and Giants continue to go up and down on their personal see-saw, the American league has turned over the job of keeping its own doings interesting to Rudy York, the back-stopping Indian.

REDS GET ENGLISH FROM KANSAS CITY

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Sept. 1 — The Cincinnati Reds announced today the purchase of Charley English, star third baseman of the Kansas City Blues of the American Association.

English, choice of sports writers for a berth on the 1937 association All-Star team, will report to the Reds soon after the close of the double-A season, Sept. 12. Recently he has been hitting at a .325 clip.

RED BIRDS DEFEATED BY INDIANS, 9 TO 0, BUT KEEP A. A. LEAD

Minneapolis Splits Twin Bill With Blues; Toledo Loses to Louisville.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 1—Milwaukee's chances of retaining the American association championship are as thin as a dime, but the Brewers are just about certain of a spot in the playoff series

The battle for the league title was still a red hot proposition today among Columbus, Minneapolis and Toledo, but the Brewers, who have staged a pretty fair comeback lately after slipping off their brilliant early season pace, apparently were solidly entrenched in fourth place. They scored their second straight victory of the series over St Paul 4 to 3, last night, and were seven and one-half games ahead of the Kansas City Blues who divided a doubleheader with Minneapolis

Both Minneapolis and Toledo muffed chances of grabbing the lead or a share of it, from Columbus The Red Birds took a 9 to 0 blistering from Indianapolis and Minneapolis could have gone into the lead by winning both ends of their doubleheader with the Blues. The best the, could do was a split, losing the opener, 6 to 4, and winning the seven-inning nightcap, 7 to 5

Toledo which could have tied Columbus for first place by getting by Louisville, succumbed, 3 to 1, before the six-hit pitching of Big Jim Peterson Peterson struck out eight batsmen and helped win his own game with a pair of singles off Fred Johnson

BARON VON CRAMM TO PLAY TOMORROW

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept 1 — Baron Gottfried Von Cramm, the slickest looking tennis player who ever brought "ah's!" from a feminine gallery will add tone to the National singles championships starting tomorrow at Forest Hills

Von Cramm has been one of the world's ranking stars for six years, yet this is his first trip to America. The Third reich told him to stay home and save his money.

Both on and off the court Von Cramm cuts a handsome figure His movie-idol face generally carries a smile, and his tailor knows his business He speaks pleasant, if slightly broken, English Up to this season his pretty German wife always accompanied him to the tournaments around Europe and gave him a kiss before each match, but they have separated.

The other eight games on the schedule for the Indians are as follows:

Sept. 24, night game, Bucyrus at Bucyrus; Oct. 1, Butler there; Oct. 8, Shelbury here; Oct. 15, Bellville there; Oct. 22, Fredericktown here; Oct. 29, Danville there; Nov. 12, Galionville here; and Nov. 19, Madison here.

There is a possibility that the Indians may play Ashley on Nov. 5 but the game has not been definitely scheduled.

BUFFALO MAN WINS $2,500 SWIM RACE

By The Associated Press

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 1 — Husky Frank Pritchard, a 25-year-old Buffalo life guard, has pulled himself out of the choppy waters of Lake Ontario in the last two years.

Frank's procedure is simple. All he does is enter the Canadian National exhibition's annual marathon swim and capture first place and $2,500.

He turned the trick for the second straight year yesterday when he swam the 10 miles in 4:19:28 to finish six minutes or 350 yards ahead of Bill Nolan, of Chelsea, Mass., who took the $750 second prize. Nolan's time was 4:25:48.

SNATCHES OF SPORTS

By EDDIE BRIETZ
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 1—Guess who's the highest paid manager in the majors?....No, not Joe McCarthy of the Yankees ($36,000 per) nor Bill Terry of the Giants ($27,500)....The lucky guy is Mickey Cochrane of Detroit....We can't tell you what he draws down, but its tops....The info comes straight down the baseball alley and will stand up....Furthermore, "Black Mike" is in so solid with his bosses he can lead the Tigers as long as he wants to—and doesn't have to sign a contract....That's what the boys in our town would call "settin' purty."

We figure Mike Jacobs cleared $50,000 for himself out of the Farr-Louis brawl....Which ain't exactly tin....All concerned had better look out for Michigan State this year....Coach Charlie Bachman has 'em so deep he's stopped counting....Tommy Farr took a man's sized swig of a concoction of brandy, port wine and sherry just before he left his dressing room....Yum, yum.

• • •

Jimmy Johnston, the Garden maestro, took one good look at Farr bobbing and weaving against Louis in the first round Monday night, then bet $10 on Tommy to last at 3 to 1....Also induced former Mayor Jimmy Walker to do same....Both collected.—Johnston said a week ago if the Welshman would only keep his head against Louis, he'd turn in a big surprise ....Get out the old liniment—football practice starts this week....Bill Terry wants it understood he isn't about to accept a reported offer of $40,000 per to shift from the Giants to Cleveland.

You can hear Tommy Farr on the air with Jim Tully tomorrow night....Dix Trout of the Toledo Mud Hens wouldn't think of taking the mound without a red handanna in his hip pocket....Note to Ohio State: Texas Christian Frogs will average 212 pounds per man against you September 25 ....They say the reason young Jack Gibbons isn't climbing the fistic ladder as rapidly as his dad, old "Phantom Mike," thinks he should is because the kid doesn't have the urge to fight.

GALION CADDIES WIN

GALION, Sept. 1—On the greens of the Galion Country club Tuesday morning, a group of caddies of Galion defeated a team from Bucyrus. The score was 14-4. Bucyrus caddies won a previous game there in the spring. Brady and Danner brought in low scores for the locals with an 83 and a 90. Russell of Bucyrus turned in an 85 for the visitors.

SCHOOL BOOK SALE TO START THURSDAY

Textbooks for New Term Will be Sold at South Prospect Building.

Textbooks for Marion city school pupils will go on sale Thursday morning at the administration building on South Prospect street.

Purchases may be made from 9 to 11:30 a. m. and 1 to 3 p. m. Thursday and Friday and from 9 to 11:30 a. m. Saturday.

Supt. C. A. Hudson is urging parents to make purchases at the earliest possible date in order to have their children supplied with all needed textbooks, workbooks and supplies when the schools open a week from today.

Workbooks, which are required for some subjects, will be sold at several uptown school book stores as well as at the administration building. No supplies will be sold at the administration building.

In discussing the free book list for this year, Supt. Hudson pointed out that literature and social science books will be furnished by the board of education in the seventh, eighth and ninth grades. The books, which are in sets, are not on the mimeographed lists.

DOMINION GRATTAN SETS TRACK MARK

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 1—Three big purses dangled before the eyes of grand circuit drivers today at the Ohio State Fair, topped by the $4,631 Geers Memorial stake for two-year-old pacers in the fourth event.

Tom Berry drove Dominion Grattan, bay colt owned by Paul Bowser of Boston, to what was announced as equalling the world's record for a pacer in a mile handicap event yesterday. The time was 2:04 flat.

Billy Direct, owned by Downey & McConville of Syracuse, N. Y., and driven by Vic Fleming, took the Geers Memorial stake for three-year-old pacers for a $3,253 purse. Billy Direct, taking both heats in 2:06¾ and 2:06, was followed by Hal Cochato, driven by Sep Palin.

Lee Hanover took the classified trot for $500. The owner is the Biery farm of Butler, Pa., and the driver Charlie Lacey. Best time was 2:05¼.

The 2:14 trot for $500 went to Coffee, owned and driven by Don Stokes of Urbana, O. The best time was 2:05.

YANKS, CLEVELAND TO CLASH TODAY

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Sept. 1 — The New York Yankees and Cleveland Indians were wary of the home run bats of Lou Gehrig and Earl Averill as they met here today, for they had a big part in the Yanks' 7 to 3 victory yesterday.

The game was really decided in the fifth inning when Mel Harder lost his control for a few moments.

Crosetti walked, Rolfe doubled and Harder hit DiMaggio to fill the bases. Lou Gehrig hit the first ball over the wall for his 31st home run of the season.

Averill hit his 16th in the third but there was none aboard.

REDS TO MEET BEES IN SERIES FINAL

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, Sept. 1 — A double-header with the Bees today will conclude the final eastern series of the Cincinnati Reds.

Schott and Derringer were scheduled to do the Reds hurling and the Bees named Turner and Fette.

The cellarites continued their losing streak yesterday by dropping the game to the Bees, 7 to 2.

DELAWARE JUSTICE FINES 4 DRIVERS

Special to The Star

DELAWARE, O., Sept. 1—Four men were given fines of $100 and costs each when arraigned before Justice John J. Schweitzer on charges of operating automobiles while intoxicated. All were remanded to the Delaware county jail Monday afternoon for non-payment of fine.

Those fined were Frank Gordon of Fostoria, Tom Trainer of Mt. Gilead, Matt Geddie of Marengo and Artie Cottinger of Marengo.

GRID VICTIM NO. 1

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 1—When a young man's thoughts reach the football stage of the annual cycle—it's time for innocent bystanders to take top row stadium seats. Mrs. Catherine Angelo helped inaugurate the gridiron season—unofficially—by getting in front of a young man who was concentrating on catching a football. A police cruiser took her to a hospital for treatment of an elbow injury and severe bruises.
